Fan of Andy's

Q. My niece in Texas is a great fan of singer Andy Williams and once talked to him. She has an incurable disease, although she is unaware of it. Would it be possible for Williams to call her or write her a personal note? D.M., Harbor City.

A. ACTION LINE contacted Allan Bernard, William's business manager. Arrangements are being made for Williams to call your niece. Your niece might also want to send Williams a belated birthday card. The singer was born in Wall Lake, Iowa, on Dec. 3, 1930. From 1938 to 1952, he worked with his three brothers as the Williams Brothers Quartet. The quartet worked with Kay Thompson in nightclubs for several years. In the 1950's Williams started doing guest spots on television shows. Eventually he got his own show.

Who Insured Whom?

Q. Several years ago my husband took out insurance with a mutual company. Because he was under 18,

A. You will probably have to pay the bill, "Not knowing the name of the company, it is impossible to say for sure," said a spokesman for the legal division of the state Department of Insurance in Los Angeles. "But it sounds to me as if the company was a reciprocal exchange company, in which case any member or former member becomes liable to pay a certain portion of any company deficit." He explained that there are no stockholders in a reciprocal exchange company. The members all insure each other. When a mutual company reaches a certain size, and soundness, such as the Farmers Group and the Automobile Club of Southern California, a certificate is issued to the company by the Insurance Commissioner stating that members are not subject to such liability.

All in a Lather

Q. Is it safe to carry pressurized cans such as hair spray containers in the baggage compartment of a jet airliner? will they explode? R.W., Long Beach.

A. Theoretically, it's okay to carry pressurized products in your suitcase because jet airliners are pressurized throughout, said Laird Kelly, public information representative for Trans World Airlines. Most people do it, he said, and it is extremely rare for a can to break open. Old or rusty cans, however, may present a problem because the airliner has a pressure equal to ground pressure at 6,000 feet above sea level. A rapid climb from sea level to this height could possibly affect a can of shaving lather or the like, but "it isn't at all likely," Kelly said.

Game of Skill?

Q. Why is the Lite-A-Line game on the Nu-Pike permitted to operate when it appears to be a form of gambling? C.E.F., Long Beach.

A. In 1942 the city attorney's office judged Lite-A-Line to be a game of skill rather than of chance, thereby allowing it to be operated legally in the specially zoned Nu-Pike area. The Long Beach City Council has tried several times since to outlaw the game but Arthur Loeff, who has owned and operated the Pike's Lite-A-Line concession since 1941, has managed to keep it in operation. Lite-A-Line is a pinball machine version of Bingo. Each player has his own table and pays 25 cents a game. The first player to sink five balls in a straight line on the 25-hole board, and light up that line, is the winner. At different hours of the day there are $6, $10 and $20 games. The winner is paid in game tokens, which also are redeemable for cash. After many delays and much deliberation, on May 31, 1955, the City Council passed an ordinance designed to get around the city attorney's 1942 decision. A list was compiled of 80 games of skill. Owners of games not included in the list, such as Lite-A-Line, were required to obtain permits from the city. Three months later the city was ordered in Superior Court to refrain from enforcing the ordinance. Even though a new city attorney had been appointed, he could not arbitrarily reverse the ruling of the former attorney, the court ruled. In 1956, however, Loeff again was refused an operator's license, and again took the case to court. On Aug. 13, 1957, the Second District Court of Appeals upheld the 1955 ruling that the city ordinance was unconstitutional. And on Oct. 22, 1957, the council gave up its long fight to put Lite-A-Line out of business. At the end of that day's session, nobody challenged the late Councilman D. Pat Ahern's comment, "Let's drop the whole thing."

Gas Kills Five in Family

Heater Claims
Lives of Parents,
3 of 9 Children

By RUSS MacDONALD
Staff Writer

Five members of an El Monte family—the parents and three of their nine children — died in poisonous fumes pouring from a defective gas heater late Friday.

The remaining six children clung to life at the County-USC Medical Center.

Tragedy struck the family of Thomas Cruz, 38, of 3942 De Garmo Ave, daytime factory employee and a restaurant worker by night.

He, his wife, Anabelle, 46, and children, Richard, 11; John, 10, and Roger, 6, were dead on arrival at El Monte Medical Center after two nephews—James and Roy Miller—went to the home when Cruz failed to report for his night job.

The other Cruz youngsters were under intense care at County-USC Medical Center after being transferred from El Monte Medical Center.

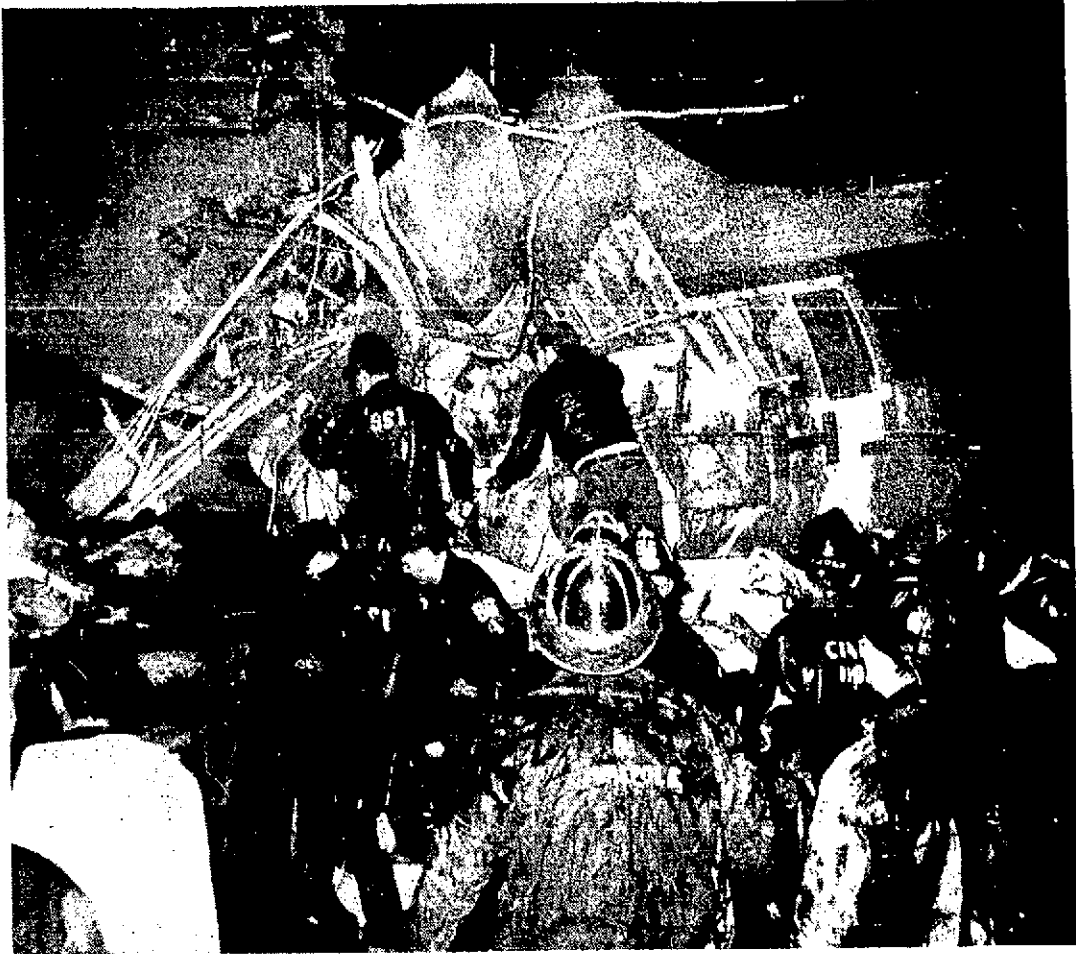

They are Thomas Jr., 18; Dennis, 17; Edward, 12; Linda, 8; Ronald, 7, and Craig, 2.

Five dogs belonging to the Cruz family also died as toxic fumes filled the two-bedroom, one-story bungalow home.

Police said the Millers, who are neighbors in Rosemead, were asked to go to the home by Jenette Ferguson, of El Monte, a niece of Cruz, after an employee of the Del Rae Restaurant in Pico Rivera telephoned to say Cruz had failed to show up for work.

The Millers smelled gas as they approached the Cruz home, ran inside after tearing open a locked screen and found all 11 members of the family—and the dogs—unconscious in the two bedrooms.

Survivors Rushed to Hospitals

CHICAGO (UPI) — A North Central Airlines passenger plane with 45 persons aboard crashed into a hangar while attempting to land at fog-bound O'Hare International Airport Friday night. Airline officials said at least 30 persons were believed dead.

The Minneapolis-to-Chicago flight, coming down in a murky mist and driving drizzle, slammed into a Braniff International hangar at the northwest corner of O'Hare, the world's busiest airport.

A North Central spokesman in Minneapolis said "there were 41 passengers and four crew members on board ... there were 15 survivors."

AFTER leaving Minneapolis, the Convair 580 propjet had made intermediate stops at Wausau, Green Bay, Manitowish and Milwaukee, Wis.

It was the first fatal crash in the history of North Central, a feeder airline which has been serving the Middle West since 1948.

Survivors were rushed to hospitals around the northwest edge of Chicago and its suburbs.

At Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines, an emergency room worker blurted, "we're busy trying to keep these people alive."

It appeared the plane, coming in on a southeast course, tipped its wing on the top of the Braniff hangar, swung around and plowed into it.

It was so foggy on the airstrip that emergency workers were not immediately certain whether the plane had landed or crashed.

The plane's nose was torn apart and fire flared.

South Viets Fire 12 at Paris Talks

SAIGON, Saturday (AP) — Twelve staff members of the South Vietnamese government news agency and television station who went to Paris with Saigon's peace talks delegation have been dismissed, a government spokesman said today.

The 10 news agency employees and two television men had gone to Paris Dec. 7 with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, supervisor of the delegation.

They had been authorized to go by Ky, but had not received clearance from Minister of Information Ton That Thien, the spokesman said. He said Thien signed a decree Friday firing the 12.

Apollo Heralds New Era

Combined News Services

Beyond its scientific achievements, the flight of America's Apollo 8 gave a world weary of war and calamity "something to be pleased by."

It was a triumph of the human spirit and the human mind that transcended national boundaries; it was shared by all who heard of the magnificent voyage.

To an unhappy world, Apollo 8 seemed to herald perhaps happier times to come.

Both Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, and Soviet space scientist Leonid I. Sedov saw Apollo 8 as more than an achievement by a single country.

Sedov used the term "development of the universal culture" in praising the flight of astronauts.

Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders. "This event," Sedov said, "goes beyond the limits of a national achievement."

Welsh, with pride and joy obvious in his voice, noted the eagerness with which the world greeted news of the flight as it proceeded on its ten-times-around moon mission. This eagerness, he said, manifested "a grasping and reaching out for something to be pleased by."

Welsh added that the whole world, not only America, had undergone a bewildering array of contrasts during the year just closing — from the best of it to the worst.

Apollo 8 returned from its half-million mile voyage to the moon Friday, burning through the atmosphere to a pinpoint landing in the dark on gently rolling tropical seas 1,000 miles south of Hawaii.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt.

James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders, history's first moon mariners, rode their spacecraft through the hottest and fastest return from space ever to a landing only 5,000 yards from the waiting recovery carrier, the USS Yorktown.

So accurate was the return helicopter pilots, hovering near the expected landing point, were able to see the spacecraft in the predawn dark as it descended under its three huge white and orange parachutes.

The landing was like all of the flight that went before it: flawless. The flight started at the precise second planned, 4:51 a.m. PST last Saturday, and ended within seconds of the planned time, almost exactly 147 hours later.

Borman and his crew stayed aboard their spacecraft, bobbing gently in five-foot waves, until dawn erased the darkness around them. A helicopter, like a mechanical mother hen, hovered over the moonship, waiting for first light.

Borman chatted amiably with the chopper pilot, Cmdr. Donald S. Jones of Madison, Wis., and was obviously elated at the

Weather'll Be Just Ducky but Skiers Will Be Lucky

Everyone except skiing fans might just as well head for Hawaii this weekend, because the weather here will be lovely only for ducks, the weatherman says.

Chilly temperatures, light rain and gusty winds are on tap for Long Beach and the rest of the Southland, with lots of snow due to blanket mountain areas, the Weather Bureau predicts.

High temperature in Long Beach today is expected to be about 58, with an overnight low near 44.

Along with the cool temperatures, weathermen predict a 10 per cent chance of sprinkles for this morning, a 30 per cent possibility of sprinkles or light rain this afternoon, and a 50 per cent chance for light showers late today and all day Sunday.

MOUNTAIN AREAS will have Arctic-type temperatures and a 4,800-foot snowline. New, although light, snowfalls are expected late today and all day Sunday if storm clouds get so heavy they burst.

Big Bear had 10 inches of snow Friday, 11 inches were recorded at Lake Arrowhead, the Palm Springs Tram was "trammed" with 16 inches, and Wrightwood and Crestline squeaked by with three inches. Mountain temperatures are expected to register in the high 30s during daytime hours, and then drop below 20 degrees after sunset.

Desert regions will be chilly and damp, with predictions for light showers or sprinkles.

WORST OF FLU IS 'YET TO COME'

Hospital Plea: 'No Visitors'

Long Beach hospital officials Friday urged visitors to stay away to avoid exposing patients to the Hong Kong flu that state health officers warn has reached epidemic proportions.

The request came from Community, Memorial, St. Mary's and Pacific hospitals, where hundreds of Southlanders are being treated for complications growing out of the highly contagious influenza.

Ten persons more than normal have died from respiratory complications in the past week, most of them apparently due to the flu, according to state health director Louis F. Saylor.

Officials of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta predict the epidemic—which has stricken one out of four persons in the southland—won't hit its peak until early or mid-January.

"I'd guess the worst will come in two or three weeks," confirmed Dr. I. D. Litwack, Long Beach public health officer.

Spot checks by the county health department showed three times the normal absentee rate at an aircraft corporation, and a large department store reported 20 per cent of its employees ill.

The U.S. Post Office Terminal Annex reported a 16.5 per cent absentee rate among its 4,000 workers.

Either the Hong Kong flu or Christmas good will has also stricken the Southland criminal population, Los Angeles Police Department statistics show.

Preliminary figures indicated that crimes committed in the week ending last Saturday showed a marked decrease, although crimes have been steadily increasing throughout the year.

However, all 73 members of the LAPD cadet graduating class were present to receive their diplomas Friday—all but four had earlier received flu vaccinations.

Dr. Gerald A. Heidbreder, county health officer, reported a major drugstore chain with 300 outlets reported a 30 per cent increase in flu-related medication.

He said drugstore officials told him the volume would have been greater if it had been possible to fill all antibiotic prescriptions.

"We don't have accurate figures any more," Dr. Heidbreder said. "The girl who was keeping the figures is down with the flu."

North Viet Force Mauled by Yanks

Combined News Services

SAIGON — American troops using armored vehicles mauled a North Vietnamese company north of Saigon Friday. Government soldiers in other operations captured 80 communists, including an entire Viet Cong platoon, military spokesman said today. Communist forces retaliated for the increased pressure following a Christmas truce. They fired six recoilless rifle rounds into the Mekong Delta town of Can Tho shortly before Midnight Friday, killing one South Vietnamese soldier and two civilians.

In the heaviest fighting, American infantrymen using armored personnel carriers and backed by artillery and aircraft fought a North Vietnamese company for four hours about 65 miles north of Saigon. The battle along an infiltration route near An Loc killed 41 communist soldiers, American losses were put at two dead and 27 wounded.

VIET TRUCE NIXED

SAIGON, Saturday — South Vietnamese Prime Minister Tran Van Huong said today there would be no Allied cease-fire in South Vietnam over the New Year.

Huong spoke with newsmen briefly after a ceremony in downtown Saigon. He did not elaborate on his government's decision on a New Year's truce. The Viet Cong have announced a three-day cease-fire for their troops over the New Year. Last year the Allies observed a 24-hour standdown, but it was marred by scores of incidents.

Red China Explodes Hydrogen Bomb

WASHINGTON — The Red Chinese Friday exploded a hydrogen bomb in a test which indicated to experts that they had got their nuclear weapons program back on the track after an apparent failure a year ago. The test, eighth since 1964, was detected by the Atomic Energy Commission. It was exploded in the atmosphere and was equal in power to three megatons — three million tons — of TNT. The explosion in the Lop Nor test range in western China was the first Chinese nuclear test since Christmas Eve, 1967.

Israel Buys 50 U.S. Phantom Jets

WASHINGTON — The State Department announced Friday that the U.S. had agreed to sell Israel 50 American Phantom jet fighters for slightly more than $200 million. Robert J. McCloskey, the department's spokesman, said he did not know when or by whom the long-pending and controversial agreement was signed, except that it was "recently." However, Washington diplomatic sources said Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, Israeli ambassador to the U.S., signed for his country "within the last few days." McCloskey told newsmen "a small amount" of the price for the F4 Phantom jets was being advanced to Israel as a loan. But he had no other details immediately.

Red Tribesmen, Thais in Raging Battle

BANGKOK — Heavy fighting between Communist-led tribesmen and Thai forces in the country's troubled northern sector left four soldiers dead and at least one wounded, government sources reported Friday. The Communists, identified as members of the Meo Hill tribe, attacked a police and army unit near Tab Berg Village, 230 miles north of Bangkok. Machine guns and rocket fire supported the tribesmen. Other fighting was reported 30 miles to the west, at Pa Wai Village, where Thai forces said they were still under siege from insurgents who have attacked 41 times in eleven days. That battle has left 27 tribesmen killed and several government forces wounded.

42 Burned to Death in India Labor War

MADRAS, India — A thousand extra police kept watch Friday over Venmani and neighboring villages following an arson massacre that killed 20 children, 19 women and 3 men Thursday in a labor war regarding wages. During an exchange of gunfire between Marxist and non-Marxist factions at Venmani the victims had sought shelter in huts and could not escape because of the firing. Non-Marxist farmworkers, angered regarding an earlier killing of one of their number, set fire to the huts and 42 occupants were burned to death, police said.

Last Count Blocks Sale of Air West

SAN FRANCISCO—Air West shareholders apparently approved sale of the regional airline Friday to billionaire Howard Hughes, but dissident directors blocked a final count. Attorney Joseph Martin, one of the directors opposed to the Hughes' offer, said about 52 per cent of the firm's 3.8 million outstanding shares voted in favor of the sale. But his group challenged 400,000 of the proxies, claiming they were illegally cast, and said there were some instances of apparent double counting. Officials were unable to say when the final tally would be announced.

Air West was formed last April by merger of Bonanza, Pacific and West Coast Airlines. It has been losing money ever since and reported a loss of $2.5 million during the third quarter of this year.

The regional carrier serves the Western states and adjacent points in Canada and Mexico over 9,000 miles of routes.

Feeling 'Pretty Hot' Against Suspect

DES MOINES—A self-styled minimalist accused of abducting and slaying Pamela Powers, 10, was held under heavy guard Friday after police received several anonymous telephone threats against him. Polk County Sheriff Wilbur Hildreth said community feeling was "pretty hot" against Anthony Erthel Williams, 24, an escapee from a Missouri mental hospital being held on an open murder charge. Hildreth quoted one telephone caller as saying, "You'd better keep a close watch on that fellow or we'll hang him in front of the YMCA." Blonde, blue-eyed Pamela disappeared from the YMCA building here on Christmas Eve, and Williams led police to her body in a ditch east of Des Moines after he surrendered in Davenport, Iowa, on Thursday.

Truce in Vietnam Johnson's Fondest Hope

WASHINGTON — President Johnson said Friday his foremost goal and fondest hope is to achieve a truce in Vietnam and "substantial progress toward peace" before he leaves office Jan. 20. The President — relaxed, proud and obviously delighted at the successful splashdown of the Apollo 8 astronauts — invited reporters into his office to watch the televised recovery of the space team after their historic orbits of the moon. This and other recent news, he said, should help make the new year a happy one.

Agnew Joins Talks at Key Biscayne

KEY BISCAINE — Members of President-elect Richard M. Nixon's prospective administration — including surprise visitor Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew — began arriving here Friday for what was described as "wide ranging" talks today on foreign policy and national security matters. The all-day sessions will take place in the bayfront home Nixon recently purchased from Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla. "The talks tomorrow will be wide-ranging in nature, and will center around conversations of organization, programs and personnel in the foreign policy and national security fields," according to a statement issued by the Nixon staff.

Hong Kong Flu Bug Threat to Aged, Ailing

ATLANTA — The Hong Kong flu virus, a rapidly spreading but mild bug that poses no danger except to the aged and ailing, claimed 547 lives across the nation last week, the National Communicable Disease Center said Friday. In its weekly bulletin, the NCDC said that for the week ending Dec. 21 there were 1,051 deaths due to influenza and pneumonia reported in 122 major cities in the country.

BIRTH BOYCOTT

DALLAS — A nationwide economic boycott of the Catholic Church by withholding money from the collection plate to protest a papal ban of artificial birth control was proposed Friday. Dr. Jeffrey J. W. Baker, professor of biology at the University of Puerto Rico, told the world's largest science group the money withheld from the church should be used to give birth control information to "countries where starvation is already a way of life and death." Baker told the 135th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science the proposed boycott would begin next July 27 because that "is the Sunday closest to the day marking the first anniversary of the papal encyclical on birth control." The encyclical by Pope Paul VI banned all forms of artificial birth control.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Kidnap Suspect 'Most Wanted'

Combined News Services

The FBI added Miss Ruth Eismann Schier, the blonde wanted in the MacKle kidnaping case, to its most-wanted list Friday in Washington. She is the first woman to be put on the roll of 10-most-wanted fugitives in its 18-year history. The FBI said Miss Eismann Schier also is known as Mrs. Johnson Rarik and Mrs. George S. Price. Miss Schier, 26, and Gary Steven Krist, 23, have been charged with kidnaping in the abduction of Miss Barbara Jane MacKle from a Decatur, Ga., motel room Dec. 17.

Miss MacKle, 20-year-old daughter of a Coral Gables, Fla., real estate developer, was found Dec. 20 in good condition after payment of a $500,000 ransom. Krist was caught Dec. 22 in a snake-infested swamp area near Punta Gorda, Fla., and almost all the ransom money was recovered. In issuing a new wanted flyer, the FBI showed three new pictures of Miss Schier with her hair cut short. It said she speaks four languages — English, Spanish, German and French. Since Miss MacKle was abducted at gunpoint, the FBI said, Miss Eismann Schier should be considered armed and dangerous.

Her description says she reportedly was born Nov. 8, 1942, at El Hatillo, Honduras, is five feet, three inches tall, weighs 110 pounds and has green eyes, blonde hair and athletic build. She is a biology researcher and student of marine sciences.

Miss Schier reportedly was graduated from the National University of Mexico in March 1967 with a degree in chemistry, worked as a biology researcher at the Pan American Union in Washington, D.C. from October 1967 through June 1968.

On the most-wanted list she replaces Carmen Raymond Gagliardi, who was wanted on a murder charge and was caught Dec. 23 by the FBI at Medford, Mass.

WON'T RETIRE

Richard Cardinal Cushing, the 73-year-old Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, said Friday night in Boston that he will not retire until he is 75. The announcement came when the gravel-voiced prelate called a WEEI radio talk show to settle a discussion on the retirement age of priests. Helen Lafferty, the Cardinal's secretary said he recently decided not to retire at the end of this year as he had previously announced after receiving criticism on his views on the marriage of Jacqueline Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis.

SAME OLD PLAN

Winton M. Blount, a fast-moving millionaire who pilots his own jet and is slated to be the next postmaster general, placed top priority Friday on quicker, better mail service. But like many who have gone before him, Blount had no ready answers on how to achieve this. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce president promised intensive study of a recent report suggesting the mails should be turned over to a corporation that would seek to run the vast postal system on a more business like basis. But Blount took no stand on the proposal. The next postmaster general spoke in Washington at one of a series of introductory news conferences by members of President-elect Nixon's new cabinet.

GEN. LOWE DIES

Maj. Gen. Frank E. Lowe, USA-Ret., President Harry S. Truman's personal representative in Korea, died Friday at the Veterans Administration facility in Togus, Maine. He was 83. Lowe left retirement to take up Truman's assignment in Korea. He had seen service in both world wars.

CONRAD WAITS

American flyer Max Conrad waited on Adelaide Island in the Antarctic Friday for a break in the weather that would allow him to continue his around-the-world flight by passing over the South Pole. Word that Conrad still was waiting on Adelaide Island across the Cape Horn Strait from Chile came from the Chilean Air Force which received radio broadcasts from Adelaide.

SMITH NEXT?

Gordon P. Smith, 51, of Menlo Park, former state finance director, said Friday he is being considered by Gov. Reagan for the lieutenant governorship. Smith said he met with Reagan in Sacramento Friday and "discussed it casually. Being lieutenant governor would be a great honor and privilege."

IRAQ SHAKEUP

Egypt's Middle East News Agency said Radio Baghdad announced Friday night in Cairo that Gen. Ibrahim Faisal al Ansari, chief of staff of the Iraqi army, and four other top officers had been retired by presidential decree. There was no indication immediately that any further action would be taken by the regime that ousted President Abdel Rahman Aref in July.

TON SON IS SUPER CONG

Viet Cong guerrilla Ton Hanh Son, 21, was hailed by the Hanoi daily newspaper Nhan Dan Friday as: hero of heroes, most perfect of perfect fighters, an avenging angel, fast as lightning, destructive as a tornado, powerful as a typhoon. An 800-word text broadcast by Hanoi radio credited him with these feats:

—Personally and without help from any fellow guerrilla he killed 142 American soldiers and 310 South Vietnamese soldiers, and captured many more.

—Shot down two U.S. warplanes with his rifle.

—Singlehandedly captured 26 pieces of Allied artillery.

Ton Hanh Son, the paper said, has been awarded 28 battlefield decorations, risen in three years from raw recruit to company commander, and become "an epic legend in his own time."

'CHRISTMAS IS HOPE', BOB HOPE

The man with the ski-jump nose is 65 years old, and he had been on the road for two weeks with up to three shows a day. He looked tired, but he romped onto the stage at Dong Tam. "The favorite television show down here is 'Lost in Space,' the story of this base," Bob Hope cracked. The infantrymen, 15,000 of them gathered before a stage shaded by a cargo parachute held by a crane, yelled in glee. Hope had arrived in the Mekong Delta. "Hope is Christmas," one soldier said. "It makes coming to Vietnam seem a little worthwhile." The show pattered through a glittering hour of Les Brown's band, Ann Margret, Linda Bennett, Penny (Miss World) Plummer, former football star Rosey Grier, and lots of longlimbed girls. Hope said his respect for the morale of the American troops had risen: "They somehow seem to be in much better shape this year."

GOLDFINE BROKE

Bernard Goldfine, whose gifts to persons in high places in government became a major scandal of the Eisenhower Administration, was not only broke but in debt when he died in 1967. Claims against his estate—listed when he died as $10,000 in personal property — amount to more than $3.3 million, it was disclosed in Probate Court Friday. One of those to whom Goldfine was generous was Sherman Adams, who was President Eisenhower's chief assistant in the White House. Goldfine left no will. His widow, Charlotte, is administratrix of his estate.

ZANUCK ZAPPED

Movie producer Darryl Zanuck broke an ankle Friday while skiing at the Alpine resort of Megere, France, authorities reported.

DIES AT HOME

Mrs. John Jewett Garland, wife of the late U.S. representative to the International Olympic Committee, died at her San Marino home Friday, within a month of her husband's death. Helen Garland, 61, was daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chandler and granddaughter of Gen. and Mrs. Harrison Gray Otis.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has quietly approved a $1.5-million federal antipoverty grant to California Rural Legal Assistance Inc., an agency the governor has strongly criticized in the past.

"Many of our past concerns, and the criticisms of numerous interested parties, have been resolved," said William P. Clark, Reagan's executive secretary, in a letter to

Trustees, Union Huddle on S.F. State Troubles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Talks were launched Friday between trustee representatives and the American Federation of Teachers in an effort to resolve problems at San Francisco State College.

The AFT has threatened to go on strike Jan. 6 if the current college crisis is not settled. An AFT spokesman also urged AFT members at the 15 other state colleges in California to support the strike.

John G. Sperling, president of the union's college council, said the trustees "must be made to realize

Consumer Costs Set Record High

Consumer costs in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area climbed three-tenths of one per cent during November, establishing a new all-time record for the month.

Suzanne Sadowsky, chief of the Southern California office of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the record high on the Consumer Price Index hit 124.2, a 3.5 per cent increase over the level for November a year ago.

Food and clothing prices declined during November,

3 Deaths in Traffic Accidents

A 45-year-old Anaheim woman was killed Friday and two other persons lost their lives in separate area traffic accidents.

Mr. Velia Stricklin, was dead on arrival at Martin Luther Hospital in Anaheim, after an auto driven by her daughter, Mrs. Lucia de Lisa, 19, of the same address, collided with a car driven by June Tagliere, 45, of 10371 Lampton Ave., Garden Grove.

Police said the accident occurred near the victim's home.

Mrs. de Lisa was in serious condition at the hospital, and her sister, Jackie Rita Stricklin, 3, was in fair condition. Mrs. Tagliere was treated and released.

HAMILTON G. LONGWELL JR., 19, of Laguna Beach, was struck and killed by a car while pouring gasoline into his auto on the San Diego Freeway near Laguna. The driver of the other car was not held.

Estevan Munoz, 50, a Mexican farm laborer who lived in a farm labor camp at 1835 Gothard St., Huntington Beach, was killed earlier while walking in traffic lanes along Beach Boulevard near Ellis Ave.

Police said Munoz was struck by an auto driven by Roslyn Irene Atwood, 23, of Bloomington.

She was not held.

Publisher Becomes Cranston Press Aide

Sen.-elect Alan Cranston announced Friday he has appointed Coalonga publisher Murray Flander as his press secretary.

Flander, who served as assistant press secretary to the late Adlai Stevenson when he was governor of Illinois, owns the Coalonga Record in the central San Joaquin Valley.

19 Valley 'Rebels' Face 75 Counts

Nineteen students from San Fernando Valley State College were arraigned Friday in Los Angeles Superior Court on a 75-count County Grand Jury indictment as a result of a campus disturbance last Nov. 4.

Judge William B. Keene set Feb. 10 for the defendants to enter pleas to multiple counts, including conspiracy to kidnap, falsely imprison, burglarize and rob.

Authorities claimed the students seized two campus buildings for four hours and held 37 administrators and school personnel hostage.

Nine other defendants who failed to appear for arraignment have until Jan. 10 to surrender or be arrested on warrants issued by Keene.

A 29th defendant, whose bond earlier was set at $7,500, already was in custody when the 19 students surrendered for arraignment. Bail was set at $1,000 each for all of the 19 but Archie Chatman and Arthur Jones Jr., both set at $2,500 each. Chatman is president of the school's Black Students Union.

SAYS VIET OFFICER 'U.S. Is Deciding Fate of Vietnam'

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

PLEIKU — "The fate of Vietnam is being decided by America and there is nothing we can do about it," says a Vietnamese lieutenant colonel who would face severe disciplinary action if his name were divulged.

"How can Thieu's delegation take a real role in the Paris peace talks when we are paid by the U.S., the economy is held up by your aid and the government itself is protected by 550,000 soldiers?"

The officer, pessimistic about the possibility of peace, talked with this reporter in this central highlands city, 200 miles from Saigon.

He was even more pessimistic about Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky as the leader of his country's delegation to the peace talks.

"Many of us question his ability as a negotiator," he said. "Hanoi and

Ontario Airport Plan Dropped as Obsolete

The Los Angeles Airport Commission agreed Friday to drop a nearly completed master plan for Ontario International Airport after being told the plan probably would be obsolete soon.

Airport officials told commissioners the Federal Aviation Administration is expected to issue new airport design standards within a few months to accommodate new jumbo airliners and that new runway and building alignments should make the current plans obsolete.

The commission voted to pay the firm drawing the plans $43,775 for work already done and discontinue the project.

But, airport authorities said, local officials still hope to convince Washington to exempt the Ontario airport from the new standards and said the present plans would be filed away in case they are successful.

The commission also gave final approval to an $80,000 experiment to spray chemicals over Los Angeles International Airport in an attempt to clear away fog.

10 Jailed for Slaying Girl in Orgy of Sadistic Mauling

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ten "hippie types" were jailed Friday on murder charges after a three-hour orgy of beatings and sadistic sexual attacks left a teen-aged girl dead in a Haight-Ashbury apartment.

Ann Jimenez, 19, a resident of the building, died of acute head injuries following the savagery triggered by the theft of a pair of hippie boots.

HOMICIDE inspectors Bill Armstrong and Dave Toshi said the suspects dragged the girl into another apartment, stripped her and then beat, kicked, raped and subjected her to sexual indignities.

After three hours, the officers said, Miss Jimenez's friends carried her naked body, covered with obscenities scrawled with lipstick, back to her apartment. When they were unable to revive her, the friends called police.

An autopsy performed by the coroner's office indicated a blood clot caused by head injuries caused the girl's death.

In addition to the 10 persons in custody, including three women, police sought several others who wandered in and out of the apartment and took part in the attack. Those in jail were hooked on suspicion of murder.

Friends of the victim said she moved into the Haight-Ashbury after arriving here from Seattle. They said the attack followed a false accusation that Miss Jimenez had stolen a pair of boots.

The vicious slaying was the latest in a series of violent crimes in the Haight-Ashbury, the one-time center of hippiedom. The district degenerated into a jungle of young criminals and drug-users in the past year, with several slayings involving drug peddlers.

governor's vetoes of federal antipoverty allocations.

The CRLA provides legal aid to poor people, especially in migrant farm labor areas.

Clark said a few changes in CRLA were proposed by the Reagan administration this year. Clark suggested that "business of industrial related" representatives be included in the CRLA board of directors.

Last year, CRLA officials said Reagan's proposed changes either were illegal or were already being implemented.

The announcement that the 1968 grant was approved came from CRLA officials.

Five Americans Among 12 Killed in Plane Crash

United Press International.

Wreckage of a private twin-engine DC-3 aircraft containing 12 bodies, including five Americans, was found in rugged mountains about 25 miles east of Ensenada, Mexico, Friday.

The Military Airport Authority in Ensenada said Friday night that weather conditions prevented rescuers from reaching the wreckage rapidly. Rescuers were expected to travel to the rugged area by horseback Saturday morning, the authority said.

The plane, missing since shortly after 11 a.m. Thursday was found Friday afternoon. The craft, which belonged to the Exportadora De Sal, S.A. Salt Exporting Co., was flying from Tijuana to Guerrero Negro (Black Warrior Lagoon) about halfway down the Baja California peninsula.

It apparently was swept off course over Ensenada Bay about an hour after taking off, authorities said. This occurred during the peak of a heavy storm which hit the Baja California coastline.

Americans aboard were identified as Neil Richardson, Henry Winchell and Javier Zamudio, all of San Diego; Anthony Eddo, Escondido and Clarence Thomas, Pasadena.

The pilot was identified as Rosalio Montalvo Orduna and the co-pilot as Enrique Giron Soto — both of Tijuana.

Others aboard were listed as Josefina Velasco, Jose Luis Velasco, Thomas Serna, Ana Maria Teresa De Giron, and Guiberalco Lopez Velasco.

All of the other passengers except Serna, of Monterey, Mexico, reportedly lived at Black Warrior Lagoon.

The Americans aboard the plane were believed to be executives of allied companies owned by the salt exporting firm which owns a mine facility at the lagoon.

BEACH FIRE LAID TO FIREBUG THIEF

A $40,000 fire which heavily damaged a Huntington Beach beauty college was set by a burglar who stuffed paper into gas heaters and set them on fire, arson investigators said Friday.

The blaze broke out at the Universal Beauty College, 18330 Beach Blvd., late Thursday night and was brought under control in 50 minutes by seven fire units.

Battalion Chief James B. Watters said a prowler pried open coin machines and ransacked desks before fire broke out in the building.

Other businesses below the second-story beauty college were undamaged, investigators said.

And Now, On With Apollo 9...and 10...and 11...

By HOWARD BENEDICT
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — American space officials Friday hailed the success of Apollo 8 as a great pioneering effort that opens the way to manned lunar landings, large space stations and trips to the planets.

They scheduled Apollo 9 for a Feb. 28 launching date, Apollo 10 for May and Apollo 11 for July or August. The last most likely will be the flight that will attempt to land men on the moon.

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, acting administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told a news conference: "Apollo 8 is one of the true pioneering efforts of mankind that the whole world has helped to support. We feel very humble that we were the ones given the opportunity to perform this historic feat."

"BUT we must remind ourselves that this is not the end but the beginning; that we are here this morning at the onset of a program of space flights that will extend through many generations," Paine continued:

"This is the first time man has gone out into the outer regions of space, free of earth's gravity. Many are going to follow in the footsteps that the three astronauts blazed."

"We're looking forward to the remainder of the Apollo program. Beyond that we're looking forward to the days when we will be manning space stations in the sky, conducting lunar exploration, and in the distant future, blazing a new trail out to the planets."

AIR FORCE Lt. Gen. Samuel Phillips, Apollo

program director, said as a result of Apollo 8 "we are clearly a major step toward a manned landing on the moon."

He said all the hardware for Apollos 9 and 10 was being assembled at Cape Kennedy and that the equipment for Apollo 11 had begun to arrive.

Phillips set the Feb. 28 date for Apollo 9, which will test the last major piece of Apollo machinery. That is the lunar module, the frail capsule that is to drop two astronauts to the lunar surface while the third orbits the moon in the main ship.

Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt is to command the three-man crew which is to take Apollo 9 and the module on a 10-day earth-orbit flight to run the two through their paces.

IN MAY, Apollo 10, headed by Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, is to fly an Apollo ship and a lunar module into lunar orbit, with two astronauts dropping to within 50,000 feet of the surface before flying back up to rejoin the mother ship.

If all has gone well, Apollo 11 will attempt the historic landing next summer. The crew is expected to be named in January.

Phillips said there was no possibility the Apollo 10 team could land on the moon because their lunar module is not built for a landing. He left the door open to perhaps skipping Apollo 10 and going directly to a moon landing with Apollo 11.

He also cautioned that major problems might crop up with the very intricate lunar module, which could put a moon landing off until even later.

PHILLIPS SAID the performance of the Apollo 8 ship "was greater than 100 per cent."

"It exceeded our expectations," commented Chris Kraft, director of flight operations.

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, said the experts were eager to talk to the three astronauts when they return here Sunday for extensive debriefings.

He said many weeks will be required to evaluate spacecraft data alone and that moon geologists will be poring over the astronauts' photos for years in search of lunar secrets. The astronauts snapped several hundred pictures as they circled just 70 miles above the surface.

"The astronauts reported the sites they looked at were very good ones to land on," Gilruth said. "We're going to want to use their experience in any way we can in training astronauts for the lunar landing."

He did not rule out the possibility that one or more of the Apollo 8 crew could be on the moon landing team.

SIMULATED SPACE TRIP Year in Isolation Told by Russians

By THEODORE SHABAD
New York Times Service

MOSCOW — Three young Russians who spent a year in a simulated space ship in the Moscow area told in interviews published Friday about the frictions and problems that arose during their long isolation.

Their advice to future crews of similar experiments or those on long interplanetary voyages was to undergo a careful selection process for psychological compatibility and not to play games, lest they become a source of tension between winner and loser.

The three told of the difficulty of going to sleep in the early stages of confinement; of occasional, almost uncontrollable desire to walk through the drizzle on an autumn day in Moscow or stroll through the woods around the city, and of becoming intoxicated by fresh air and the surroundings when they emerged from the compartment last Nov. 5.

The Soviet Union disclosed the experiment was in progress earlier this year.

found it hard to get along for a year, Manovtsev said: "There were no serious conflicts while we were busy working. There was, of course, friction, but we were able to keep it under control."

IN THE first 2½ months, the three men were confined to a 120-square-foot compartment that contained triple-decker cots, a galley, refrigerator, toilet and a bicycle trainer for exercise.

When the greenhouse was connected with the compartment after this first period, it added 60 square feet.

"We rushed into the greenhouse as if it were a wide open space," one of the men recalled. "It seemed like a tree-lined avenue in a park."

In reply to a question whether they ever felt like opening the door of their compartment, the three talked of their desire to walk through the rain and in the woods.

MANOVITSEV said he felt like breaking down the door when he was informed of the birth of a daughter last February. But he did not see her until after the experiment when she was 9 months old.

Early contact of the three men after they emerged was limited to examining physicians because of fears of infection and possible emotional pressures after the long isolation. They were permitted to meet with their families and friends gradually before finally being allowed to return home.

The three men agreed that this period of acclimatization was more difficult than anything they had experienced in their cabin.

Apollo 8 Fulfills Space Prophecies

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The acting administrator of the space agency traced the heritage of the Apollo 8 flight back to the 14th Century Friday in praising it as "one of the great pioneering efforts of mankind."

Calling the moon flight a "truly historic occasion," Dr. Thomas O. Paine told newsmen:

"We, of course, can trace the heritage back to the vision of men like Jules Verne, H. C. Wells, Oberth, Tsiolkovsky, and to the great scientists of the past, Galileo, Kepler, Newton."

P A I N E CONTINUED, "This is a culmination of a great human dream, great human aspiration and confidence through the ages."

"This is not the end, but the beginning," he said.

His remarks brought to mind the tales of space adventure penned by French author Jules Verne, who in 1865 wrote "The Earth and the Moon," a novel about a trip to the moon and return to earth.

Well before man first broke the sound barrier, English novelist and historian H. G. Wells wrote science fiction about an era yet to be seen by man — although many of his predictions have come true.

Prof. Hermann Oberth is known as the "father of German rocketry," while Konstantin Tsiolkovsky is called the "father of Russian rocketry."

Galileo was an Italian astronomer and physicist who lived from 1564 to 1642; Johannes Kepler, 1571-1630, was a German astronomer.

And Sir Isaac Newton, 1642-1727, was an English mathematician who discovered the phenomenon that pulled the three astronauts to earth Friday — gravity.

'MOST CREWMEN ENTITLED TO MEDAL' Purple Hearts for Pueblo Men

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The skipper of the USS Pueblo and nine of his crewmen will get Purple Heart medals next week for wounds suffered at the time of their capture, the Navy revealed Friday.

Most of the 82 freed crewmen probably will be entitled to the Purple Heart for injuries sustained during their 11 months in a North Korean prison, a Navy spokesman said.

The announcements came as some of the crew began their first full day of intensive debriefing in what the Navy called its most exhaustive investigation into the loss of a ship.

The Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, remained under medical care apart from his crew for what Navy doctors said was a respiratory infection and physical and emotional exhaustion.

The shrapnel wounds he suffered in his right leg and left back are well healed and will leave no lasting effect, the Navy said.

"He still remains as commanding officer of the USS Pueblo," Capt. Vincent Thomas, public affairs officer of the Pacific Fleet, told a news conference.

The Pueblo's executive officer, Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr., suffered wounds on his back and left side of his neck, but like the wounds suffered by the other crewmen when the intelligence ship was seized, Murphy's injuries are "well healed," the Navy said.

One crewman, Fireman Duane Hodges, 21, of Creswell, Ore., suffered mortal wounds during the capture. His funeral is Saturday at the junior high school in his hometown.

Some of the crewmen exercised outdoors for the first time since they arrived in the United States on Tuesday, while 35 others, after passing medical and psychological tests, started their debriefing.

Questioning by more than 100 specialists was directed by Capt. Charles Dale Everhart, one of the Navy's top intelligence officers.

Information obtained will be used only for intelligence and national security, the Navy said, and will not be used for or against any crewman before a court of inquiry convening in two weeks.

The debriefing is concerned only with possible loss or compromising of classified equipment and information aboard the Pueblo, said Capt. Gale E. Krouse, senior judge advocate.

"It is confidential," said Krouse, adding that it will not look into any actions by the crewmen while they were being captured or during imprisonment.

Questions about actions of individual crewmen come more properly before the court of inquiry, described by Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, as the highest type of fact-finding body which can be convened by the Navy.

Some of the crewmen went about their duties during the capture while suffering a variety of shrapnel wounds, lacerations and chest wounds, the Navy said.

The longest list of injuries disclosed by the Navy belonged to Fireman Steven Woelk, Alta Vista, Kan., who suffered shrapnel wounds in the upper right thigh, lower back wounds, a chest wound on his right side, a cut on the bridge of his nose and in the right side of his mouth.

Hanoi Airs Message From 'Yank Captive'

HONG KONG (AP) — A voice identified as that of a captured U.S. Navy officer sending season's greetings to his family in San Diego was broadcast by Radio Hanoi and monitored here Friday.

The Vietnamese radio station identified the officer as Cmdr. Colin H. Haynes, a prisoner of war, whose serial number is 593915.

The message, addressed to Mrs. Haynes, said: "Hello darling. I send you, Helene and Tim all my love on this most joyous of holidays."

"I am well, in good spirits and strengthened by the knowledge that you are all safe and healthy."

HHH 'Unreadable'

ABOARD THE USS YORKTOWN (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey put through a personal call to the Apollo 8 astronauts after their recovery Friday, but the connection was so poor he couldn't be understood. "Mr. Vice President, you are unreadable," said Astronaut William Anders.

"I pray that the new year will truly bring peace on earth and will see the reunion of those families separated by war."

"Send my love to Mom and Dad and the family. I love and miss you all so very much. Colin."

Soviets Praise Apollo 8 Feat

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian television viewers admiringly watched the Apollo 8 astronauts step to the deck of the USS Yorktown after winning an epic semifinal heat for America in the two-nation race toward a toehold on the moon.

The Soviets, runners-up at this advanced stage before man actually steps on the lunar surface, were generally praised Friday night of their rival in space.

"It must be great to be an American tonight," a Russian said to an American in the street after Moscow radio broadcast word that the Apollo 8 spacecraft had splashed down in the Pacific.

SAILORS IN ON 'BONUS'

For three Long Beach area sailors aboard the carrier Yorktown, re-enlistment will bring an historic bonus today.

The three are among eight scheduled to be sworn in by one of the first men ever to circle the moon — Navy Capt. James Lovell Jr., command module pilot and navigator aboard Apollo 8.

Lovell was scheduled to administer the oath to the eight sailors in the carrier's hangar.

The sailors are senior chief boatswain's mate Edward S. Corrie, 46, of San Pedro; engineman 1.c. William F. Oslund, 36, of Long Beach; and radioman 2.c. Raymond J. Kiusler, 25, of Hawaiian Gardens.

The others are senior chief boilermaker Robert Groves, 36, of Chula Vista; ship fitter 1.c. Arthur Woodward, 29, of Norfolk, Va.; boilermaker 3.c. Raymond Scott, 21, of Bakersfield; and aviation electronics technician 3.c. Wayne E. Spicer of Cottage Grove, Minn.

APOLLO 8

success of his space adventure.

In a recorded message to be delivered to the astronauts later, President Johnson sent the Apollo 8 crew "congratulations from all your fellow countrymen and all peace-loving peoples in the world. Well done."

"You made us feel kin to those Europeans five centuries ago who first heard news of the New World," the President said.

He disclosed the White House used the Soviet-U.S. hot line to keep the Russian officials informed of the progress of the flight.

"The Soviets were very solicitous about the welfare of you astronauts and expressed great interest," Johnson said.

Apollo 8's flight — man's fastest, highest and riskiest — went in its entirety like a well-rehearsed, well-performed drama.

The re-entry, ending a half-million mile coast from an orbit around the moon, began as the crew separated their tiny command module from their service module, the spacecraft's "supply room," and flashed on toward the atmosphere.

Borman turned the command module blunt end forward and let an on-board computer take control.

Within seconds, the spacecraft was flashing into the atmosphere at 24,500 miles an hour — almost seven miles a second. Heat, from the friction of the spacecraft colliding at high speed with the atmosphere, built up MORE MORE to 5,000 degrees and the heat shield covering the craft's blunt end glowed red as bits of it charred away.

The computer, working flawlessly, rolled the spacecraft like a top, as planned, giving it lift enough to extend the flight as it flashed over the Asian land mass.

ON BOARD, the astronauts were out of touch with ground controllers more than three minutes, as the disturbance of the high speeds destroyed communications.

As the atmosphere gave an invisible brake on the spacecraft's speed, the astronauts, wearing the loose coveralls they had worn since just after launch, endured forces up to six times the force of gravity for short moments.

Then, just as the spacecraft dropped past the 24,000-foot altitude mark, a heat shield covering the apex of the cone-shaped spacecraft fell away and two small parachutes popped into the rushing air.

The small chutes stabilized the craft for several seconds and then three huge orange and white parachutes blossomed and the spacecraft descended at 22 miles an hour, splashing in the dark of the predawn Pacific at 7:51 a.m. PST. It was drizzling slightly, but Yorktown sailors could see the spacecraft beacon flash.

Frogmen jumped into the ocean beside the moonship at first light and attached a flotation collar and inflated a rubber raft.

Then, one at a time, the astronauts left their space shelter—now a charred metal cone—and got into the raft.

A net snaked from the hovering helicopter and the spacemen were lifted one by one out of the raft.

On board the chopper, Borman grabbed an electric razor and removed six days of beard growth as the plane churned toward the Yorktown.

The helicopter landed on the board flight deck of the carrier and Borman, grinning and waving, led his two bearded crewmates through the choppers hatch to a waiting red carpet.

SAILORS, wearing their Navy whites and crowding the flight deck in the early light, cheered as the spacemen, moving easily but unsteadily at first, walked to the ship's officers.

Borman, invited to use a waiting microphone, thanked the ship's company for the recovery operation.

"We're very happy to be here with you," he said. "We appreciate your efforts. We know you had to stay out here over Christmas. It seems that Jim Lovell and I always seem to fly in December."

"We are very proud to be part of this great achievement," the Air Force Colonel said. "We're proud of it and we appreciate the part you played in getting us back."

The space trio was then whisked into sick bay where one of the first persons to greet them was a flight surgeon with a needle. Blood samples and X-rays were taken quickly in the first round in a long series of physical examinations.

Later, the astronauts sat down to a breakfast Borman had ordered as they were floating in their spacecraft—steak and eggs. It was the same food they ate before their launch six days before.

The astronauts were to remain aboard the Yorktown for 25 to 30 hours as it cruises north toward Hawaii.

Promotion Due for One Astronaut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only one of the three Apollo astronauts who returned Friday from a voyage around the moon probably will get a spot military promotion.

The other two were upgraded after previous space trips and have reached the upper limit of such promotions.

Air Force Maj. William A. Anders is expected to be raised to lieutenant colonel.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman and Navy Capt. James Lovell will stay at their present rank, Pentagon officials said.

These officials said only one such spot promotion is permitted per man and that the cutoff point, in any event, is below the rank of general or admiral.

Borman and Lovell eventually may reach star rank through the normal service selection process.

168 RESERVE MOON TRIPS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The waiting list for tourist flights to the moon increased to 168 Friday as three American astronauts returned from man's first moon orbit.

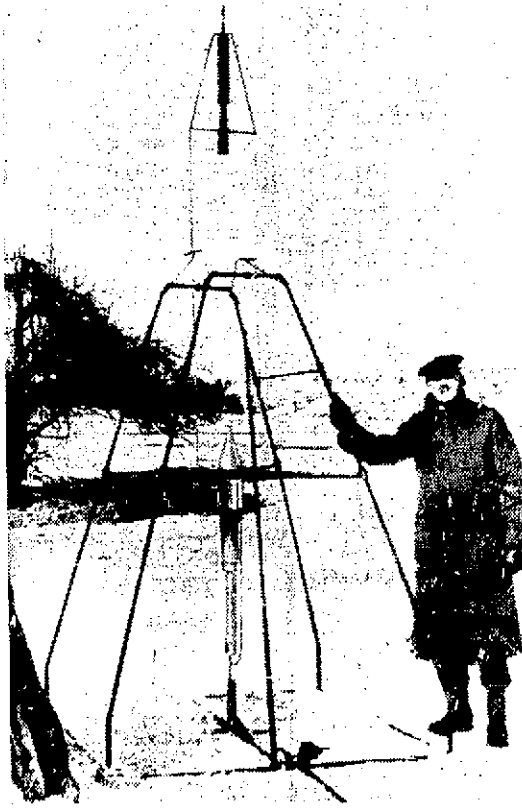

Pan American World Airways said it had been recording and acknowledging each reservation in hopes it will be first to develop space travel for tourism and business on a lunar route.

VERY CHEEKY MANEUVER BY BORMAN

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman emerged as the dapper astronaut Friday—apparently because he planned it that way.

When the three spacemen were hauled from their space capsule to the flight deck of the carrier Yorktown, James Lovell and William Anders sported heavy beards, grown in the course of 147 hours in space.

Borman, however, was clean-shaven.

At the Mission Control press conference that followed the successful moon flight, Dr. Charles Berry, chief physician to the astronauts, cleared up the matter.

"The razor was a request of Frank's," he said. "We put one on the helicopter for his use. That's all I can tell you about it."

And All This Time . . .

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—On splashdown day, Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman said after the recovery helicopter pilot asked him if the moon was made out of green cheese: "It's not made out of green cheese at all. It's made out of American cheese."

Italians Have the Best Word for Apollo Feat: 'Fantastico!'

United Press International

The world the American astronauts left behind on their history-book voyage to the moon stood in admiring salute Friday on their return.

The Italians, from President Giuseppe Saragat to the man in the piazza, had the best word for the exploit of the Apollo 8: "Fantastico!"

Millions in many countries watched the telecast of the triumphant return of Frank Borman, William Anders and James Lovell. Many, watching outside store windows, cheered in the streets.

The Soviet Union, through its news agency Tass, hailed the "courage and skill" of the astronauts who made "this outstanding scientific and technological experiment." It added: "The success of the flight opens a new stage in the history of space research."

Pope Paul VI congratulated President Johnson and the American people on a "magnificent enterprise" by "the intrepid space travelers." He invoked divine blessing "upon all contributing to this noble enterprise."

Tips, Rules to Obey at Parade of Roses

Tips for the more than one million persons expected to attend the 80th annual Tournament of Roses on New Year Day were issued Friday by Pasadena Police Chief Robert H. McGowan.

He stressed motorists should double-check the mechanical condition of their automobiles and plan their routes carefully.

"Cars should be thoroughly checked for oil, gas, water and mechanical condition," the chief said. "Breakdowns are not only embarrassing but cause much unnecessary congestion."

All persons attending both the parade and Rose Bowl game are requested to park, if possible, near the Rose Bowl, and walk to the parade line. It is suggested that surface streets outside the Rose Bowl area be utilized as much as possible, because of the shortage of parking spaces in the Bowl area.

Those coming only to the parade should park on the side of the parade route nearest their home. Suggested areas to park and routes to travel are published prior to New Year Day.

THE CHIEF SAID motorists should be sure to check parking restrictions prior to parking. In the past several years, restrictions on many streets have been removed to allow more street parking near the line of march. However, those streets currently posted "No parking" are for the movement of large numbers of vehicles and must remain open. Vehicles parked on restricted streets will be cited and towed away.

Motorists are warned not to double-park vehicles on those streets that dead-end into the line of march, and thus are closed by the crowd.

Chief McGowan noted that the Pasadena Police Department strictly enforces all laws. Particular attention will be placed on violation of the vehicle code, such as equipment violations, speeding and drinking drivers.

Loud mufflers and muffler by-passes will be the target of city enforcement officers, augmented by a large number of officers from neighboring enforcement agencies.

The 1969 parade route remains unchanged. It will form, as usual, at Del Mar Boulevard and South Orange Grove Avenue, and start at 8:40 a.m., going north to Colorado, east on Colorado and turning north on Sierra Madre Boulevard, continuing on Sierra Madre to Victory Park at Paloma and Sierra Madre. The best viewing sites probably will still be in the eastern end of the city, east of Hill Avenue.

"The greatest crowd in tournament history is anticipated, so allow ample time to reach your destination," Chief McGowan advised.

Visitors are cautioned not to bring boxes or other flimsy items to sit or stand upon, as they may break or cause injury to others if left behind. "The use of high ladders and flimsy scaffolding is also dangerous and will not be permitted," the chief said.

OPEN FIRES on the surface of the streets will not be permitted. Fires must be in fire-safe containers, which must be raised above the street a sufficient distance. Size of fires in fire-safe containers is important — they must not be of sufficient size to create a hazard. The Pasadena Fire Department will maintain a patrol to control all unsafe fires.

"The parade honor line is painted light blue," Chief McGowan explained. "Those attending are urged to take places up to, but not beyond, this line. At strategic intersections, emergency lanes will be maintained and these will be kept clear for emergency vehicles."

"The streets are public and space may not be sold or saved. Each person must reserve his own place along the parade line." Chairs placed on public streets must be occupied — otherwise they will be confiscated.

Peddlers are required to possess a city license to sell in Pasadena. Licenses must be obtained from the License Department, City Hall, prior to Jan. 1. Violators will be prosecuted, Chief McGowan said.

READY TO BEAT THE BAND(S) AT PASADENA

L.B. All-District Band Sets Rehearsal for Rose Parade

Second session in round of rehearsals for the 170-piece Long Beach All-District High School Band was scheduled for 10 a.m. today in prelude to the musical unit's appearance in Wednesday's Tournament of Roses parade.

The band, which includes musicians from all of the district's five high schools, will represent Long Beach at the parade and march directly in front of the city's float.

Roland Sandberg, a Wilson High School music teacher, is director of the All-District Band.

Arne Anderson of Wilson High School is head drum major, and Ronald Chapman of Lakewood High is drum major.

Assisting Sandberg are Jerry Bartkus, Jordan High School band director, and Roger Johnson, band director from Millikan High.

Student musicians participating in the All-District Band are giving up six days of their Christmas-New Year's vacation in order to rehearse together, Sandberg pointed out.

The unit held its first rehearsal Friday at Poly High. The remaining rehearsals, including today's, are slated to be held at the Veterans' Stadium parking lot — on Sunday, from 2 to 4:30 p.m.; Monday, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and Tuesday, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

HARBOR COLLEGE ADDS CLASSES IN NEGRO CULTURE, LITERATURE

Harbor College in Wilmington will offer additional classes in Negro culture and literature during the spring semester, it was announced Friday. A new class, "Mainstream of American Negro Literature," will be taught from 6:15 to 9:15 p.m. on Tuesdays. Added to the social science curriculum is "The Afro-American in Contemporary Urban Society," which will meet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays.

Two previously scheduled classes which will be continued are "History of the Afro-American," which meets Thursdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., and "History of Africa," which meets Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 a.m.

Appoint Field Deputy for Assessor Watson

Fred C. Kimball, former co-publisher of a magazine for apartment house owners and builders, was appointed Friday as a field deputy to Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson.

Kimball, of Chatsworth, is active in the Apartment House Owners Association of San Fernando Valley.

SIGNAL HILL CENSUS

Applications are being accepted for enumerators to conduct a special census in Signal Hill.

The jobs, which pay $2.14 an hour, will last five to 10 days beginning Jan. 20. Applicants should be U.S. citizens, at least 18 years old, of good appearance and able to do considerable walking.

Persons interested may contact the Signal Hill City Hall for applications and additional information.

Negroes Resurrect Cavalry Unit to Ride in Rose Parade

The Negro Horse Cavalry will ride out from the dust of Wild West history to join the Rose Parade in Pasadena Wednesday.

It will be the resurrected 10th Cavalry, which is not a military organization but a group of Negroes interested in black military history.

Fourteen men will ride in the parade, dressed in Indian War-Vintage cavalry uniforms.

The unit they are named for, an all-black regiment, served in the West from 1866 to World War II, when it was re-numbered and re-equipped as a tank and mechanized infantry outfit. The cavalry unit fought Indians and border violators from Kansas to Arizona, and from Mexico to Montana. Its soldiers were nicknamed "The Buffalo Soldiers."

Present members of the historical equestrian group are veterans of the Army, Navy and Marine corps. Some of them fought in Korea. The group's head, Len Glasgow, was a paratrooper with the 101st Airborne Division.

Glasgow bemoaned the Army's unwillingness to preserve the traditions and histories of its units. When he was in the Airborne, he said, he didn't know about his unit's heroic accomplishments in World War II because the Army had no historical-information program.

He and other Negroes became interested in the 10th Cavalry for the same reason, he said — because the unit had been given little historical recognition, even though it was considered a fine outfit.

The equestrian group is trying to launch a movie or television series based on Western adventures of the black cavalry regiment.

CERRITOS SETS BUILDING RECORD

Cow Town Becomes a Model City

By RALPH McCLURG Staff Writer

With more than $40 million in building permit valuations chalked up during 1968, the former "cow town" of Cerritos is rapidly becoming a model city of homes, commercial and industrial developments.

Building activities in Cerritos during the year set a record with the Los Angeles County Department of Building and Safety. Closest competition came from the Lomita office of the department.

The bulk of Cerritos building was in residential construction, with 48 subdivisions completed or under construction. Most tracts reported heavy pre-sales and were virtually sold out upon completion. Price range for the 6,775 single family homes built during the past year, now occupied or in the completion stage, is from $20,000 to $36,000.

In addition, Warmington Construction Co. earlier this month won design and layout approval for a multimillion-dollar, 37-unit town house-type apartment complex.

In the manufacturing and warehouse areas of the city, the 16-acre industrial park development of the Lonnie Dunn Corp. has been 90 per cent leased and the company has broke ground for another tract of equal size.

A third 20-acre industrial park is under construction by Pacific Land Co., and more than a score of other distributors or manufacturers have purchased land, have plans, or constructed plants for immediate business.

Ernest Hahn, Inc. recently announced plans and won City Planning Commission approval of a zone change for a $40-million regional shopping center, north of South Street between the San Gabriel River Freeway and Gridley Road.

Two major department stores are committed for the center, with two more expected to complete the 60-store facility covering 1,500,000 square feet of merchandising area and a 400,000 square foot enclosed and air conditioned mall. The surrounding parking area will accommodate 7,000 vehicles.

The zoning application for the regional shopping center is to come before the Cerritos City Council on Jan. 7 for final approval. Completion date for the project is early 1970.

Already under construction is a 10-acre shopping center at Palo Verde Avenue and South Street that will include a Von's market, National Stores and Sav-On Drug store as basic tenants.

At Carmonita Avenue and Artesia Boulevard, a five-acre commercial center with a bank, independent drug store, and other units will join Alpha Beta-Acme Markets in a 1969 spring groundbreaking.

Fedco Stores has purchased 15 acres at South Street and Gridley Road, opposite the projected regional shopping center, for a new merchandising outlet. Gemco will locate at Del Amo Boulevard and Bloomfield Avenue on a 10-acre site, according to the Cerritos Chamber of Commerce.

Morris Weiss Corp. is scheduled to break ground shortly after the first of the year for a $7.5-million senior citizens' rest home, sanitarium and mental facility. To be known as Cerritos Park, the institution will be located on an 18-acre site south of Alondra Boulevard and west of Studebaker Road.

entries from 36 states and the District of Columbia were in the original competition.

The Downey Municipal Parks and Recreation Department was entered in the nationwide competition by Gene's Sporting Goods of Downey, a member of the foundation.

Sports Foundation is a non-profit organization geared to expand interest and participation in all areas of recreation. The award winners are selected on the basis of meeting recreational needs of their communities' long-ranged plans, inventory of public-owned recreation facilities, and growth of local recreation programs in the past decade.

Downey in Finals for Sports Award

Downey Parks and Recreation Department is one of three finalists in the country for the National Gold Medal Award presented by Spots Foundation Inc., James D. Ruth, department director, announced Friday.

The department is entered in competition with cities of 50,000 to 100,000 population. Selection of the top winner in this and four other categories will be made by leaders in the parks and recreation fields from across the nation in January.

State Crackdown

Aimed at Holiday Drinking Drivers

A "massive crackdown" is in store for drinking drivers in California during the upcoming New Year holiday, the safety coordinator of the state transportation agency warned Friday.

The official, John Berke, decried the loss of 25 lives during the 30-hour period from 6 p.m. Tuesday to midnight Christmas, and said authorities are going to do their best to see no repetition occurs over New Year's.

"There is absolutely no excuse for the inordinately high traffic toll on our highways and streets during the Christmas holiday just ended," Berke said in Sacramento.

"CHRISTMAS is meant to be a joyous occasion, one to be spent in happiness. Yet 25 California families will remember this Christmas not with joy, but with sadness at the loss of a loved one."

"Just a little more caution, a little more attention to driving details, could have prevented this needless loss of life."

"We don't know yet how much alcohol was involved in the 25 Christmas deaths but we certainly intend to eliminate as many drinking drivers as possible over New Year's."

"Californians will not stand for a repetition of the tragic deaths of this week."

BERKE SAID weather conditions were extremely bad over Christmas, especially in Northern California.

nia "and this no doubt had a bearing on the high number of deaths by auto accidents."

"In spite of hourly warnings and pleas by safety councils, local police and the California Highway Patrol, the record-breaking number of deaths still occurred to mar this happiest of holidays."

Berke said California Highway Patrol and California Division of Highways statisticians usually predict about 12 or 13 auto deaths on a normal weekday and 16 to 17 on weekends.

"Using these estimates," he said, "there shouldn't have been more than 19 or 20 deaths during the 30-hour Christmas holiday period. And there just was not enough additional traffic over this period to justify such a high figure this year."

By comparison, Berke pointed out, last year's four-day Christmas holiday accounted for 89 traffic deaths, an average of about 22 per day.

"And this was over a weekend which ordinarily is high, anyway," he said.

Pierpoint Votes to Merge With Land Company

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

A majority of stockholders in Pierpoint Landing Inc. — operators of a fleet of 51 sport fishing and charter boats — Friday approved a proposed merger with the Long Beach-based Mattawa Land and Cattle Co.

Larry Davidson, Pierpoint vice president and general manger, said such a merger could provide desired financing for proposed expansion and enhance managerial capabilities of his company.

During a noon meeting, 41 stockholders representing 87 per cent of outstanding stock in Pierpoint Landing Inc., voted approval of the Mattawa presentation.

Norman Rasmussen of the law firm of Ball, Hunt, Hart, and Brown, representing both firms, made the presentation, at the meeting chaired by W. J. Gillis Sr., chairman of the Pierpoint board.

DAVIDSON noted the Long Beach Harbor Department has advised his company it may soon be ordered to relocate the fishermen's wharf and boat landing.

"The merger of these two companies will be beneficial in developing a new and greater Pierpoint Landing elsewhere in the harbor," Davidson said.

He declined to discuss details of the stock exchange pending approval by the Securities Exchange Commission, but said the transaction was a "multi-million dollar deal."

In addition to a waterfront tourist attraction and sport-fishing boat operation at Berth 202 on Pier A, the Pierpoint company also operates landings at Morro Bay, San Pedro, and Oceanside, as well as the Marine Engine Service Co. in Long Beach.

In addition to vast land and cattle holdings in Idaho, the Mattawa company owns four 85-foot sport-fishing boats operating out of Pierpoint Landing and two 93-foot harbor cruise boats running from the Ports of Call Village in Los Angeles Harbor.

$1 Million in Building Approved

Residential construction valued at more than $1.1 million will be built in Long Beach under permits issued Friday by the Building Department.

The day's total, which consisted principally of a $476,400 convalescent hospital and 22 single-family dwellings, pushed the December volume over the $4-million mark and raised the 1968 total to nearly $52.5 million.

The largest single permit Friday was the one issued to Empress Properties Co. for construction of a 133-bed convalescent hospital at 1020 Termino Ave.

The one-story structure was designed by architect George Kirkpatrick, and will be built by Paul F. McKenzie Inc.

The 22 single-family dwellings will be part of the Bixby Hills development, and will be built by S & S Construction Co. for the Waddington Corp.

The dwellings, which vary in construction cost from $25,730 to $34,800, were designed by the architectural firm of Voorhees-Trindle & Nelson. Total valuation of the 22 dwellings is $644,400.

Fire-Guard Contract Let at Shipyard

A Long Beach construction firm has been awarded a $1,193,460 contract to build a fire protection facility on Pier 6 of the city's Naval Shipyard, the Navy announced Friday.

The contract for a pumping station was awarded to Healy-Tibbitts Construction Co.

Company officials said most of the facility will be submerged and it will supply pressurized salt water to protect several piers from fire hazard.

Almost 1,600 persons — including more than 300 police officers — paid final tribute Friday to slain detective Gary D. Rippstein, chaplain of the Torrance Police Department.

Mormon Bishop Robert Fernley delivered an hour-long eulogy praising the 29-year-old officer, shot fatally by a suspected airplane thief in a Hermosa Beach apartment Dec. 20.

"We have come today to honor one of God's anointed, His chosen, truly one of His most precious sons," Bishop Fernley said, in Torrance.

Rippstein the department's first and only chaplain, joined the Torrance force six years ago and served with the patrol, special services and auto theft divisions.

'SUB-LET' STAMPS

Utt Sees Savings in Vending Plan

By BOB HAUSER
Political Editor

Rep. James B. Utt, R-Santa Ana, Friday estimated first-year savings of $150 million under his proposed legislation to have private enterprise operate postage-stamp vending machines.

Private operators, under Utt's bill, would get a maximum 15 per cent discount on their stamp purchases and would be required to sell machine-vended stamps at face value.

Operators now charge as much as 10 cents for a six-cent stamp to make a profit, since they must pay face value for their merchandise.

Savings to the Post Office Department would come in a number of ways, Utt said. It costs the department eight cents in a post-office window transaction to sell one five-cent stamp.

The transaction costs only four cents through government owned vending machines and even less when private enterprise operates the machines.

Private operators now have between 300,000 and 400,000 machines serving the public. Ray Gaines, president of the Stamp Operators of America, told an Anaheim press conference Friday the public would save by buying stamps at face value rather than paying a premium for convenience of the machines.

Utt, ill with flu and represented Friday by his field assistant, Conrad Epley, contended in a prepared release his bill would tend to alleviate the pressure of additional post office windows and expansion of facilities.

In his dual capacities as police chaplain and elder of the Mormon church, he had performed wedding ceremonies for officers James Weyant and Lee Turner, both among the pallbearers Friday.

The detective's widow, Marsha, carried her sorrow with dignity, both during the eulogy and during military graveside honors at Green Hills Memorial Park, San Pedro.

She sobbed into her white-gloved hands briefly during the prayer of dedication for the grave, when one of Rippstein's fellow Mormon elders asked that "it be protected from vandals . . ."

Rippstein was the father of three children, Gary, 4; Terri, 2; and Kristy, 1. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rippstein, of Torrance.

Police officers from throughout the Southland joined Torrance's 135-man force at the funeral, while others from eight South Bay cities patrolled Torrance streets.

Rippstein died 30 hours after he was shot down by Theodore Xanthis, 35, as Rippstein tried to question Xanthis about the theft of a small plane from Torrance airport last September.

Xanthis was killed minutes later in a blazing gun battle with Rippstein's partner, detective Robert Holmes, and Hermosa Beach policeman.

MODEL PLANES DO SPACE KINGS MAKE

By HAL LOWE

Lakewood's 11-year-old Hal Dever . . . and thousands of other artisans the world around . . . build and test-fly models of airplanes and spacecraft that Leonardo da Vinci predicted centuries ago would roam the atmosphere of Earth and soar on to other planets of the unexplored solar system.

Today, in the aftermath of Apollo 8's historic around-the-moon excursion, Hal and his fellow model-makers have fresh incentive to develop their talents and imaginations beyond the limits of the detectable universe.

While it is generally believed most model-makers, in the airplane-spacecraft sense, are youngsters, the reverse is true. As officials of the National Aeronautical Association — and the world governing body known as Federation Aeronautique Internationale — can attest — the majority are adults, who not only build but also design and often test-fly their products in local, national and even international competitions.

The U.S. Navy, Air Force and other agencies — with at least token support from such astronomical bodies as the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration — support these endeavors, and for good reasons.

Just a few years ago, a lot of ingenuity and artistic skill was required just to put the potentially flyable gadgets together. Now commercial firms have taken a lot of the work out of the project.

It's all to the good, because leading aircraft-aerospace companies know that they'll reap eventual rewards in the form of design engineers, research scientists, production specialists and other key personnel.

That's progress — an investment in the Aerospace Age — which costs pennies and returns dollars. The inexpensive model kit of today is the forerunner of tomorrow's for-real "flying machines."

New Passenger Terminal for Airport Urged

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A "moderate level" of passenger service should be provided at Long Beach Airport, the city's Airport Advisory Commission said Friday.

A new passenger terminal should be built, because it is needed to meet existing traffic, the commission said in a letter to the City Council.

Chairman Charles F. Severson said the commission believes it should withhold any "detailed recommendations" until it has a chance to look over the pending airport study by Quinton Engineers Ltd.

"Until that time, we endorse the present operation of the airport as conducted by the Department of Aeronautics, and the progress that has been evinced in the past," the commission letter said.

Severson said it is the "considered opinion" of the nine-member commission that Long Beach Airport should provide a moderate level of passenger service, continued service to general aviation and continued support of the McDonnell Douglas manufacturing facilities.

SINCE THE PASSENGER terminal provides visitors with their first impression of the city, the letter said, it should be "consistent with the stature of a city of our size and importance."

Commissioners said they "strongly urge" continued support of general aviation, noting the trend at major commercial airports has been to eliminate light aircraft traffic.

"Our airport at Long Beach is uniquely suitable for accommodating general aviation by reason of its central location in the Southern California area," the letter said.

The commission noted the "important contribution to the economy" by McDonnell Douglas, and urged that any future development of the airport "continue to provide whatever space and facilities are needed for their continued and prosperous growth."

Douglas flight operations are "extremely few in number," especially when the economic advantage to the city is considered, the commission said.

Gym Unsanitary at LBSC, Closed

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

"Dangerously unsanitary conditions" in the locker rooms at California State College at Long Beach Friday forced closure of the men's gymnasium.

Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, College President, ordered the action a recommendation from Dr. Donald L. Martinson, director of health services. The sanitation problems were uncovered during a routine check of the gym area, Martinson said.

THE GYMNASIUM was closed just 24 hours before the facilities were scheduled for use in a wrestling tournament, but Dr. Fred Miller, director of athletics, relocated the meet for 10 a.m., today, in Long Beach City College gym.

A spokesman for the athletic department said efforts were being made to have maintenance personnel correct dressing room conditions, but maintenance is badly understaffed at the school.

"WE HAVE SAID IN the past," the spokesman said, "that this school" is operating at 160 per cent of capacity. The situation with regard to closing the men's locker room is simply another evidence of this problem.

"It tells — perhaps better than we could — how critical our need for additional maintenance personnel at this school is."

The spokesman said a request for emergency funds has been directed to the office of Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, requesting money for more maintenance workers.

"Unless we remedy our maintenance situation," he said, "we're likely to face a repetition of the closure order."

He added, however, the quarantine imposed by Dr. Martinson was a "precautionary move."

"We have no indication anyone has become ill as a result of inadequate maintenance of the gym," he added.

DR. MARTINSON'S order will keep the athletic facility closed until Jan. 5, the day before classes resume at the 28,000 student school, largest of the state colleges.

Some easing of the situation may occur next semester, when a maximum of 25,000 students will be accepted.

More than 21,000 students have been pre-registered for the spring semester, college records show.

Week's Wall Street Trend

Week's Wall Street Trend

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—
The week's turnover sank to 45.4 million shares from 66.2 million the week before and was the smallest since the week ended Aug. 31 when 38.6 million shares changed hands.
The Dow Jones industrial average took a loss of 14.48 a 952.51.
Since Nov. 29 when it closed at 985.08 the closely watched barometer has sunk 32.57 points instead of soaring on to "Dow ,000" as many in Wall Street had confidently expected.
Unexpected boosts in interest rates, tightening credit and fears of a "money crunch" such as accompanied the 250-point plunge of the Dow in 1966 were the main factors in this year's decline from near-record heights. As the year drew near its end, puzzlement over what business and the market will really face in 1969 brought extreme caution. The light volume this week was one reflection of this.
In addition the Christmas holiday in mid-week, the stretching of this holiday by many Wall Street ers, and large doses of Hong Kong fog were cited as additional factors.
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 3.9 to 359.5.
Of 1,708 issues traded during the week, declines outnumbered advances by 1,062 to 517.
The week began with a sharp plunge on Monday—a drop of 13.24 in the Dow industrials, its second biggest of the year. The main reason for this was that Monday was the last trading day of the year when profits could be taken for 1968 income tax purposes by selling "regular way" (five-day delivery). Other reasons were continued fears of tight money and a forecast of progressively smaller corporate profits in 1969.
A much smaller decline came on the Christmas Eve session. In a very dull session on Thursday, the market made its first gain in seven sessions, but it was a small one and was attributed mainly to technical factors. This technical rebound continued for a while on Friday morning but there was no enthusiasm about it and it petered out, leaving the market slightly lower at the close.
The question of whether there would be a "traditional yearend rally" as there has been between Christmas and New Year's for 35 out of the past 40 years began to seem very academic.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Gladiolus, from the Latin for "little sword," belongs to the Iris family and originally is from Africa.

Their initial cost rewards the gardener annually with showy spikes of beautiful flowers, whether the bulbs (corms) are left in the ground for some years or are dug up each year, then replanted in season.

One flower spike, with two lower blossoms partly opening and the rest of the flower buds showing color, will take about two weeks before the final tip blossoming has finished blooming!

Gladiolus bulbs usually are available at nurseries and garden centers from November on. You'll get sturdier stalk growth if you set the bulbs five to six inches deep; also, overhead watering won't topple the plants.

Mix a horticultural dust that contains a fungicide and an insecticide combined, with the soil in the bottom of each bulb hole. Remove the husks and any old roots. Dust each bulb before covering it with soil. This is a precaution against soil pests and fungus disease.

AS WE begin to plant for future color we have to follow through on some garden chores that need attention. Dahlias, for instance, should be cut back to within four inches or so of the ground. The bulbs (roots) should be carefully dug up without bruising them.

Lay them in the shade upside down to drain any liquid in the hollow stalk stub. Several days later store them in boxes. The easiest way is to wrap them in several folds of discarded newspaper and tie together at the base of the stalk stubs. Put the boxes on shelves, not on cement floor for the winter.

You'll need to check those roots several times during the winter. Sprinkle them if the roots are getting dry and beginning to shrivel.

Cultivate the soil where the bulbs had grown. Scatter two pounds of bone meal over each 100 square feet of soil, then cultivate into the soil.

SPREAD a two-inch layer of manure or some form of organic matter. Leave it on top of the ground and water well. Let it stand during the winter. Winter rains will help to wash and work some of it into the soil. Early spring you'll dig it into the soil. Come planting time that soil is enriched, ripened, mellowed and will be ready for dahlia planting.

This is your golden opportunity now to start right, growing colorful dahlias if you've never grown them before, by preparing the soil thusly as do many of the dahlia hobbyists.

ANOTHER important garden chore right now is to prepare the soil for the bare-root roses you'll be planting in the next 10 weeks or so. There are two ways you can prepare the soil. Some rose hobbyists prefer to prepare the whole area of the rose garden. Others prepare only the holes.

The whole rose garden preparation involves scattering two pounds of bone meal and two pounds of soil sulphur over each 100 square feet, then cultivating into the soil. Spread evenly three to four inches of manure. Dig it in a shovel depth, then thoroughly soak well. Week or 10 days later, dig over again and water well.

The other method is to dig 18- to 24-inch depth and width holes for each rose. Fill each hole half full of compost soil or leaf mold or planter mix mulch. Scatter cupful of bone meal and cupful of soil sulphur, then fill rest of the hole with soil. Mix the materials well together and soak deeply.

Week or so later dig over again, then water well. Week or so later soil is ready for bare-root roses planting.

YOU'LL be sorry if you don't plant some annuals in the sunny flower bed areas, as well as some for color in the shade garden. The plants won't grow fast, but the roots will actively grow, benefit from the rains and slowly develop. Come late winter into spring and they'll bloom.

Gardeners with limited space for flowers should plant ones that do grow quicker and flower sooner. Such plants are calendulas, the pot marigolds, and the Iceland poppies. Both provide warm shade color flowers.

Pansies, too, furnish lots of continuing blooms, once they start to flower. So do violas. Both are low growing, hence are planted edging sunny flower beds, walks, driveways or in front of taller growing plants.

REV. C. M. WARD

Revivaltime Evangelist at Glad Tidings

Evangelist C. M. Ward, known internationally through his weekly broadcast on Revivaltime, official assemblies of God broadcast, will be guest speaker for four nights starting Tuesday at Glad Tidings Assembly of God Church, 1900 South St.

The meetings will be part of special programs in honor of the 10th anniversary of the formation of the church and the pastorate of Rev. and Mrs. Allan Snider.

Sunday morning Rev. Snider will speak on "Why I Have Stayed in Long Beach 10 Years." A special evening program at 7 will include an open forum on "What Does the Church Mean to Me in These Last Days?" as well as musical attractions.

A color film will show highlights of the church's decade of growth and activities.

Rev. Ward's appearances will be at 7:30 each evening. He is author of 75 books, pamphlets and tracts distributed in the millions.

Draw Upon the Power

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

When problems seem just too much for you as they sometimes have a way of doing, and you start wondering if you have what it takes to carry on, what then? Where do you get the needed strength? The comeback power? Well, different people go at this in different ways but here is how that question resolved itself for one man.

It began with a bit of drama in a clubhouse locker room after a golf game. "I and two others," this man told me, "were concerned about a friend who was having a very rough time of it. So we three ganged up on George and asked him to complete a foursome for a round of golf. We thought maybe it would do him good — take his mind off himself for a while."

So it seems they had a pleasant game and in the locker room afterwards George said, "Look, I want to thank you fellows. I know what you were up to, asking me to play with you today. You've known that I'm having a hard time and this was your way of helping me. It was real thoughtful of you. You are good friends. Out there on the course I forgot my troubles a good bit of the time. But how to get through this present crisis, I don't really know," he concluded sadly.

AT THIS point one of the other men stood up, ready to leave. He dropped his hand on George's shoulder. "Look, George," he said, "I haven't known you too long; but I think I know how you feel. You see, a few years back so many things were going wrong for me that I didn't know whether I was coming or going. I almost cracked up. I guess I actually had what you might call the makings of a nervous breakdown.

"But then a friend gave me a suggestion that turned out to be the answer. He told me to draw upon the higher power. That's all he said. 'Why not draw upon the higher power?' I figured he meant God. Well, I couldn't shake the thought and finally I did what he suggested. And it changed everything for me. So you do the same, friend. Draw upon the higher power."

The man telling of this incident went on to say, "Well, I didn't say anything but I had been having my share of troubles too. And that idea grabbed me. Maybe that's what I ought to do! Draw upon the higher power. . . I knew very well that I had little power in me. All I was doing was keeping one jump ahead of failure!"

"But just how would a person draw upon the higher power? I started reading spiritual literature and trying to get an answer. And to my astonishment one day I experienced a tremendous release. I suddenly realized I had been infused with new power. It was glorious. That very day I started overcoming weakness and resentments, fears and nervousness. As a matter of fact, I've been pretty much on top of things from that time on."

He quoted from St. Luke a statement which has become, he says, his special guidance: "The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."

When you're in contact on a spiritual level motivation starts going for you. Then things which you thought you never could do move out from the category of the impossible into the area of the possible. I doubt that a single day goes by without somebody, somewhere, personally discovering this tremendous fact. My mail brings me many thrilling accounts of people who experience exciting change in this way.

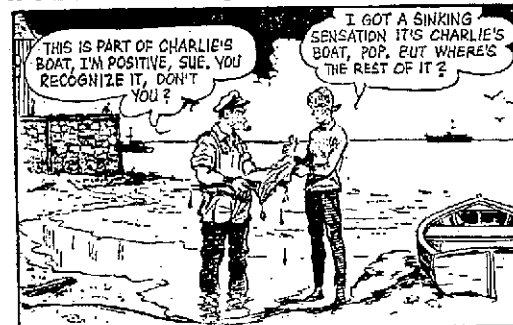

The new year beginning January 1st will be yet another precious time-chapter, holding problems and perils, but also terrific possibilities, for mankind collectively and for each person individually. And, of course, the best time to start becoming the person you aspire to be is NOW. Get going at it with the new year.

TOP THEOLOGIAN CONFOUNDED THE 'LABELERS'

Alright—Who Was This Karl Barth and What Did He Actually Stand For?

By LES RODNEY

We were afraid someone would ask that.

"Exactly what did this Karl Barth stand for?" reader J. Hicks asks.

We'd happily turn the floor over to someone who has read all the monumental works, including the multi-volume "Church Dogmatics," of the famed theologian, who died Dec. 10 at the age of 82. The answer is on the complicated side for a short newspaper article.

We'll venture a crack at it, however.

One thread that comes through Barth's work is an attack on the idea that man, through his own reason and perception, can calculate anything about the infinite. God, he said, is "wholly other" than man, beyond man's science or logic.

In essence, Barth denied that enlightened intellect could solve all life's mysteries.

THIS CONCEPT went very much counter to the tide of 20th Century thinking, when man felt he was steadily reducing the unknown "X" factors, many previously attributed to divine forces. Barth went along with this to a point, but drew an unbreachable line between man's realm and God's.

His 1919 "The Epistle to the Romans" was an indictment which "fell like a bombshell on the playgrounds of the theologians," in a much-quoted comment of Catholic scholar Karl Adam. It insisted on the radical transcendence of God, at a time when Barth felt theologians were tending to reduce God to little more than a projection of man's highest impulses. (Forty years later Barth modified the sharpness of this distinction somewhat, but retained its essence.)

This shook up some of his colleagues, such as the late Paul Tillich and Emil Brunner, who could not go along with Barth's complete dismissal of "natural theology" — the belief that some knowledge of God is possible through reason and nature apart from revelation in Jesus Christ.

Tillich, however, did acknowledge that Barth, whose ethics were grounded completely and only in the Word of God, was able to see the dangers of Nazism more clearly than others who founded their ethics in cultural values which had gone sour.

BARTH'S THEOLOGY is built unswervingly around the revelation of God in Jesus, and, flowing along with this, on the central importance of the Gospels. This could confound some who casually regard him as a theological "liberal" or "radical" because he was a boldly original thinker. There are also those with a built-in hostility to probing intellectuals in any field, and they automatically think of such a man as trying to upset, rather than deepen, the faith.

Actually, Barth confounded anyone who tried to put him into some preconceived mold. He was an original, a member of no "school of thought." He ran with no pack or trend.

His solid emphasis on the classic trinitarian dogmas of Christianity probably gave him more influence in the Roman Catholic community than any other modern Protestant thinker.

But — if Karl Barth was not exactly the theological radicals' man, neither was he the fundamentalists. He drew another distinction, between the eternal divine message of the Scriptures, and a one-dimensional, rote reading of them. He rejected Bible literalism, denying that the Bible was verbally infallible, insisting that everything human, including the language used in the Bible, had its shortcomings for expressing truth. This was perfectly consistent with his view of man's enormous limitations.

He rejected out-of-hand as completely unbiblical Calvin's idea of the predestination of the individual man's fate.

THE BIBLE was all-important to him because he held it was indeed the medium selected by God as the most suitable, within man's imperfect range, for transmitting the divine message to man. In that sense, he agreed it provides "God's Word" to humanity . . . and is "true" to the degree that divine realities can be conveyed through limited human instruments.

He sometimes compared reading the Bible to listening to one end of a telephone conversation, in which you hear only men speaking, yet their words are reflecting the unheard voice of God at the other end.

Once Emil Brunner in a conversation with Barth said that some of the Bible seemed profane.

"Nonsense, it's all profane!" replied Barth. "The Bible was written by very profane men. But, and this is the distinction, they were profane men in conversation with God!"

He also pointed out that the men who did the actual writing were limited by being subject to the factor of human time and change.

Always, however, he came back to the perfectly clear divine message coming through fully in Jesus, as the direct word of God among men. This emphasis, in fact, led some critics to say that Barth had made Jesus, and not the Bible, the final authority, which could make an interesting debate for somebody to set up.

IT MAY be evident from all this why such a giant among theologians, often compared in stature to Calvin and Martin Luther, developed no mass following, why there is no great body of "Barthians," or "Barthists." And why our reader asked the question he did.

Incidentally, despite his deflating of the power of the human mind to know God, Barth did not draw a picture of an aloof, remote or cold deity. On the contrary, he said God "is with man and by him and most of all, for him," exalting man "to community with Him."

While man can in no way discover God, God, in love and compassion, reveals Himself sufficiently for man's life.

Man, wrote Barth, is "swamped by grace."

Eugene Carson Blake, president of the World Council of Churches, in his eulogy dealt with another facet of Barth, whom he termed "very much the critical friend" of the ecumenical movement.

"During the second Vatican Council," he said, "he showed an astonishing openness toward the movement toward ecumenism in the Roman Catholic Church, warning us in the churches of the Reformation not to lag behind in our own efforts toward renewal."

Barth was certainly "controversial" on the secular front.

As a pastor in his early years he shocked many by backing the fight of factory workers in his town for better conditions. He is remembered, of course, for his courage while a professor at the University of Bonn in 1934, when he led 200 leaders of German Protestantism in refusing to take the oath of allegiance to Hitler, or to begin lectures with the Nazi salute.

Convicted by the Nazi court of "seducing the minds" of his students, he was driven to the Swiss border and physically expelled from Germany. (One of the first acts of the University of Bonn after World War II was to name Barth as an honorary Senator.)

NEVER ONE to be

No 'Barthians,' Thanks

tabbed, after the war this principled foe of Nazism, disquieted by what he regarded as a vindictive, un-Christian spirit toward all Germans, argued in a series of pamphlets and lectures for a sympathetic attitude toward the people of the defeated land.

Even more controversial to many was his insistence on the need for an "openness" toward the Communist bloc as the cold war raged.

Those who had personal contact with him found a tall, craggy-faced man with a shock of unruly white hair, a man with a lighthearted personal manner and great natural charm. He seemed to take himself less seriously than did his interviewers.

"The theologian who has no joy in his work is not a theologian at all," he once said. "Sulky faces, morose thoughts and boring ways of speaking are intolerable in this science."

Once, a man who had been introduced to Barth (which in German means "heard"), not realizing who he was, asked if Barth knew the great theologian by the same name. "Know him?" replied Barth. "I shave him every morning."

Hearing once that Pope Pius XII had paid tribute to his writing, Barth promptly deadpanned: "This proves the infallibility of the Pope."

FAMED 'BOURBON ST.' EVANGELIST IS HERE

'Brother Bob' Harrington Rated 2nd Only to Graham

"Brother Bob" Harrington, a former playboy businessman who became one of America's most colorful and best known evangelists as the "Chaplain of Bourbon Street," will be at Calvary Baptist Church of Bellflower's new sanctuary, 147222 Clark Ave., from Tuesday night, New Year's Eve, through Friday.

The dynamic and flamboyant Baptist, widely considered second best "draw" to Billy Graham, will speak at 7:30 each night. The New Year's service will be over by 9:30, announces the pastor, Dr. H. Frank Collins.

Groups desiring seating reservations for any of the Harrington appearances are asked to call the church office at 925-3706.

BROTHER BOB took the infamous Bourbon Street strip in New Orleans by storm, holding impromptu services in bars and night clubs, surprising all by winning applause — and converts. His "chaplain" title was bestowed upon him six years ago by New Orleans Mayor Victor Shiro, who cited him for preaching the Gospel "with love and wit and good humor."

He often enlists showgirls and jazz musicians for his "good old fashioned Baptist services."

The big former football player is the subject of a book scheduled by Doubleday, and numerous magazine articles. When a movie is made of the book, he will play himself.

"At first," he told a reporter in Dayton, Ohio where he drew the biggest crowds ever assembled there, "people thought I must be Elmer Gantry reincarnated — interested in a fast buck and a loose woman. They sent a go-go girl to my room to test my purity. Let me tell you, some of them gals can really put you to the test. But I passed."

He believes part of his burgeoning popularity is in his approach. "Billy Graham goes where they organize the crowds. I go where the devil's already got people together." He feels his contemporary style is effective in reaching the young. "I tell them that Jesus had long hair — but he was clean."

HE IS interested in ministering to all who need the message. "I'm as interested in the up-and-outer as the down-and-outer," he says in typical breezy style. "It's considered very Christian to love a bum — but what about a banker who's out on booze?"

"You gotta remember that the Lord loves big dogs as much as little puppies."

A typical reaction after an appearance in Shawnee, Okla., came from the Kiwanis Club. "I can think of nothing that had such a tremendous impact on so many people in such a short time as your appearance . . . All day yesterday and today I have been bombarded with congratulations for arranging your appearance . . ."

The Alabama native was a highly successful insurance man until he was converted during a revival meeting in Sweet Water 10 years ago. "I went to that meeting looking for insurance prospects," he relates, "and I left determined to put my selling abilities to work for the Lord."

Reverse Self, Plea to Pope

Pope Paul VI made a mistake in condemning all artificial methods of birth control and should reverse himself, according to a leading American Catholic theologian.

Writing in the January issue of Reader's Digest, Rev. John A. O'Brien, research professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame, called upon the pope to "acknowledge that he followed the wrong advisers and made a mistake."

"Since the decision is bound to be reversed by his successor, it would be far more honorable, proper and just for the pope to rescind himself," Rev. O'Brien said.

PEACE PRAYER FROM SPACE

Scriptures Set Moon Challenge

"Look toward the heavens, number the stars, if you are able..." Genesis 15.

The unknown was out ahead for the crew of Apollo 8 — strange, frightening, fascinating. And they made it. Basically it has always been that way.

"Give us, O God, the vision which can see Thy love in the world in spite of human failure." The prayer had come from these newest venturers as they broke through yet another uncharted frontier.

That note of religious awareness has been sounded repeatedly by the pioneers in lengthening thrust of humanity into the unvisited zones of space, and it registers an old Biblical tradition, beginning with Abraham.

By faith, he heeded a divine call to go forth to a distant land "and he went out, not knowing where he was to go" for "he looked forward to the city" of God's ultimate truth which he had never seen.

THERE WAS an echo of that same faith, of hope beyond sight, beyond the anomalies and ambiguities, the "conviction of things not seen," in the petition radioed by Air Force Col. Frank Borman from the region of the moon.

"Give us the faith to trust the goodness in spite of our ignorance and weakness."

Although skeptics have cited the emptiness of space as evidence of the absence of a place-defined sort of "God," a different reaction has come regularly from American astronauts.

This was the case with the country's first man in orbit in 1962, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., a Presbyterian active in church affairs, who told questioners after he came back from his trail-blazing trip: "To try to limit God to one particular section or space or something like that is a very foolish thing to do... God is certainly bigger than that and I think he will be wherever we go."

Other astronauts — Lt. Col. Edward H. White II, a Methodist; Lt. Comdr. Scott Carpenter, an Episcopalian; Maj. L. Gordon Cooper, a Methodist; and Maj. James McDivitt, a Catholic — have voiced similar views.

"I know that God is in His heaven... far beyond the range of our rockets and space probes," McDivitt once wrote for a Franciscan magazine. Way. "And He's also with me at the controls."

BEFORE THE present space team set out, including two Episcopalians, Borman and Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., the presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, sent them a message, saying in part:

"We are intensely proud of you... and pray that the mysterious and enriching powers of God will sustain and keep you. Your achievements already indicate that men can increase in wisdom and stature."

The plea messaged by Borman, a lay reader in his home church in League City, Tex., from a vantage point which showed the spinning Earth for what it is, and highlighted man's wars and hatreds for the folly they are, said.

"Give us the knowledge that we may continue to pray with understanding hearts, and show us what each one of us can do to set forward the coming day of universal peace."

SPECTACULAR DISPLAY ON THE MEANING OF CHRISTMAS

This display of the ongoing meaning of Christmas, linking the Nativity (left) with the Resurrection, under the heading "This Was For This," may be seen outside of Long Beach General Hospital at Willow Street and Redondo Avenue. It was conceived by Chaplain Fred Crumb. The 40-foot-wide display will be floodlighted each night for public viewing until Jan. 6.

Assemblies Expand Correspondence

The Assemblies of God, which support one of the largest missionary programs of any U.S. Protestant body, are using correspondence school methods to teach the Bible to 250,000 persons in 78 countries.

The program is expanding rapidly, and by 1971, the Assemblies of God International Correspondence Institute expects its global enrollment to pass the million mark.

GOINGS ON

This is the night for the Korean Children's Choir appearance in Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. The appealing 40-voice group, on its fourth World Vision tour, is rated high musically. Performances this year are for the benefit of Vietnamese orphan children... Bethany Baptist, 2244 Clark Ave., next Friday at 7:30 p.m. will host Rev. Richard Wumbrand, Romanian Lutheran minister and underground leader who was held as a prisoner in the Communist jails for 14 years. He dramatically showed the torture scars to a House Committee in Washington, D.C. His books are best sellers in many parts of the world... Bishop Everett Palmer, Methodist leader of the Portland, Ore. district, will preach the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday at California Heights Methodist, Orange and Bixby... Missionaries from Africa, the Philippines and Haiti will speak starting Sunday through the following Sunday at Trinity Church of the Nazarene, 4238 E. Compton Blvd., a church whose pastor stresses "is open to all races," in the spirit of the mission work. Among the guests will be Rev. Dr. Paul Orjala, who pioneered work in Haiti, and is now head of the Department of World Missions at Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City. He speaks Monday, 7 p.m.

A.M.E. Bishop Is Guest at Grant Chapel Church

The Rt. Rev. Harrison James Bryant, bishop of the Fifth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church (AME) is visiting Long Beach this weekend, with Mrs. Bryant, as the guest of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Boyd of Grant Chapel AME Church.

BISHOP BRYANT

Bishop Bryant, whose district includes 13 Western states and British Columbia, will bring the 11 a.m. message Sunday at Grant Chapel, 1129 Alamo Ave. A reception in his honor has been planned Sunday at 3 p.m. at Martin Luther King Park Clubhouse, 1950 Lemon Ave.

The bishop presided over a recent conference embracing Liberia, Ghana, Sierra Leone and Nigeria. The A.M.E. denomination was formed in 1787 when members of a Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal church withdrew as a protest against color segregation. It has nearly 6,000 churches with membership of more than a million.

Mrs. Bryant is a psychiatric social worker, author and teacher.

TELE-VUES

Some Fan Mail ... and Pan Mail

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

In keeping with occasional custom, herewith some comments from readers who don't particularly agree with what they read here, and from some who do.

FROM Lillian Thiesing, Compton:

"... As for the Andy Williams show—there is so much to be said about your criticism of it, that I could use several pages in telling you what I think.

"In the first place, the Williams family haven't had any scandal in their family life, as so many of the TV and other stars have had.

"If it was 'Gabor' sleeping with her umpteenth husband—it would be headlines.

"Claudine Longet is one of the most talented and finest artists that has ever been on TV and we should have more of the fine talents of both Andy and his wife ...

"So when you are airing your opinion, why don't you give the really talented good people a fair rating?"

FROM Philip K. Baker, Long Beach:

"As I ponder your write-up of 'Michelangelo: Every Man's Dream,' I'm wondering what was in your mind when you wrote it ...

"Perhaps you have not been writing very long and therefore are as yet unable to remain free of trivia distraction potential, but I must believe that you missed the tremendous sweep and depth of a work of art such as this and a program that is done so well ... Stick to reviewing Captain Kangaroo or something in that category ...

FROM Mitzi Gaynor, Beverly Hills:

"Thank you for the preview ... I'm so glad you like the show, and said it so very, very nicely."

FROM Hal Kanter, Hollywood:

"You 'Tele-Vues' of Oct. 24 has been called to my attention.

"Thank you for your attention to 'Julia'—and your criticism, wry as it is.

"Peace, brother."

FROM Charles Wallace, Hollywood:

"... Having been in the television and motion picture industry some 16 years, I have read television columnists in many newspapers across the United States. Many of them have used their place to laugh at what is wrong, hide what is right and usually maintain that 'knock something' position that does not require the knowledge to know what is good, how it was good and why it was good.

"As a professional in the television industry, I find your words reflect a fair and impartial thought imbued with a true knowledge of the subject ...

McNeill Club Ends After 35½ Years

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don McNeill issued his last regular "Good morning, Breakfast Clubbers" to radio listeners throughout the country Friday as "The Breakfast Club" faded from the air after 35½ years.

The program, a victim of changing public tastes which now prefer a music and disc jockey format in radio fare, originated as the Pepper Pot on June 23, 1933, and was the last regularly scheduled network radio program to be broadcast from Chicago.

"It's a matter, really, of quitting while we're ahead," said McNeill. He holds that personality programs are far more a staple of television and pointed out that entertainment and informational features on radio now rarely run over five minutes while the "Breakfast Club" is 55 minutes long.

EACH DAY'S show was filled with music, gags and banter with members of the audience ranging from Girl Scouts to grandmothers. The years also were filled with regular marches around the breakfast table so familiar to home listeners.

Those who appeared as regulars on the program include Fran Allison, who brought her rural Aunt Waterloo, Iowa, radio station in 1937; Peggy Lee, Patti Page, Johnny Desmond, John Gary and Anita Bryant.

Bandleader Eddie Ballantine began with the program 35½ years ago. Comic sidekick Sam Cowling teased McNeill on the air for 31 years and Ed

Allen: 'All I Did Was for the Rams'

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Staff Writer

The fall of the Ram empire was foreseen Friday in an unprecedented press conference held by George Allen, shockingly deposed as head coach only 24 hours earlier.

Flanked by an even dozen players and fortified with telegrams from three others absent, Allen explained his position after he received his pink slip from Ram president and general manager Dan Reeves.

Allen said he was in bed when the firing phone call came. The coach said he wished Reeves a Merry Christmas, and Reeves allegedly replied, "This is the end. You're fired. I didn't want to tell you before Christmas."

Despite his problem, Allen has agreed to coach the West All-Stars in the Pro Bowl game next month.

The most successful Ram coach began his unique conference in this fashion:

"This is the first time that a fired coach ever held his own press conference, but I thought it was necessary because I had to turn down so many calls

Thursday. For this, I apologize.

"I appreciate the way I was treated by the press in Southern California. After leaving the Chicago Bears I was told this was the most ruthless media in the world. I think it's the greatest.

"I am leaving a great organization. When I signed with the Rams, Reeves told me that he'd never sign another head coach. He's the boss, but I just hate to see all this work go down the drain. This is a championship club and I just hate to leave it.

"Mr. Reeves said a personality clash was involved. I won't go into the other situations, but I'll mention two. When I signed with the Rams, Bill Granholm (then Ram equipment manager, now a special assistant to commissioner Pete Rozelle) told me to look at the Ram training facilities in San Fernando Valley. They were horrible. I wouldn't train the Russians there. So we made our on-season camp in Long Beach.

"Our preseason camp at Chapman College was terrible, too, so I made the switch to Fullerton Junior College.

"This cost a little bit more money, but everything I did was for the Rams—to improve the team.

"I saw Dan Reeves only three seasons I've been with the Rams, Reeves and I had only a dozen conferences, at most. I made decisions on my own—and maybe he didn't like them all—but somebody had to make them."

to talk this over with Mr. Reeves. I definitely would. I worked very hard to mold this team into a championship outfit. My concern about the team is great."

The dozen Ram players

Pardee, Merlin Olsen, Lamar Lundy, Jack Snow, Ron Smith, Tony Guillory, Claude Crabb, and Doug Woodlief—all agreed on one thing:

"If George Allen isn't coach of the Rams next season, maybe I won't be around, either."

Similar sentiments were expressed by telegrams from hospitalized Tommy Mason and Dick Bass, and from Maxie Baughan, at home in Georgia.

Perhaps the most blasting statement hurled at the Rams' management was from the mouth of all-pro, Deacon Jones:

"Mr. Allen has been a great asset to my career. He also is a friend. We need George. If he doesn't come back, the Pro Bowl will be my last game as a Ram. I think I can go to other teams."

SPORTS SATURDAY INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

SATURDAY, DEC. 28, 1968 SECTION C—PAGE C-1

JONES CALLS RED-DOG BY FANS ON DAN

Rams star defensive end David (Deacon) Jones Friday said he will organize a mail campaign to prove to the owners of the pro football team that local fans want George Allen retained as coach.

Jones said he was asking Ram fans to write letters urging owner Dan Reeves to reinstate Allen as coach.

Allen was fired Thursday due to a reported personality clash with Reeves.

"When coach Allen started with us, we were losers," Jones said. "We had no pride. He gave us a winning attitude and a winning team."

"He is my coach and my friend. When your friend is in trouble, you stand behind him," Jones added.

Jones asked fans to send their letters to him, care of his office at 5550 Melrose Ave.

GEORGE TELLS HIS SIDE ON TV SUNDAY

George Allen, fired as head coach of the Rams, will discuss his unexpected dismissal in a television interview on "Inside Football" Sunday at 10:30 a.m. on KNXT (2).

Sports reporter Bob Dunn will question Allen on the reason for his being fired by Dan Reeves, president of the Rams.

Dunn will also discuss with veteran defensive lineman Lamar Lundy the team's reactions to the firing.

Harbor Rips Vikes, 91-84

By DAVE DANIEL

Long Beach City College ran headlong into a hot-shooting, hustling Harbor College Friday night in the Santa Monica Invitational Tournament and was beaten, 91-84, in the semifinal round.

Pierce College defeated host Santa Monica, 86-71, to advance to the finals tonight at 9 against Harbor.

Coach Rix Hughes' Vikings meet the Corsairs, the championship last year. The Vikings play at 7.

LBCC was gunning for its third consecutive championship in the holiday tournament, but was gunned down by the Seahawks, who played a fine game, especially in the shooting department.

Harbor put in 34 of 69 shots and 23 of 30 free throws. Reserve forward John Pickney came off the bench to score 25 points, 13 in the first half.

The Vikings were led by Kirby Gordon's career high of 22-18 of which came in the second half. The 6-5 center took up the slack created when freshman Chuck Terry fouled out with 11:30 to play.

Terry left with 14 points and was the second highest Viking scorer, although guard Tom Motley, Doug Hixon and Jim Ferguson got into double figures with 12, 11 and 10.

Ferguson played his finest game as a Viking. The freshman from Millikan High had six assists and seven rebounds. It was his passes that enabled Gordon to score.

But Harbor also put five men in double figures. Dennis Blackshear canned 17, followed by Nate Wilson's 16, John Dearman's 13 and Reggie Morris with 11.

THE VIKINGS scored first on a free throw by Terry and the game was close the first six minutes. With LBCC up 11-8, the Seahawks ran off 14 points in a row to stun the Vikings, who never recovered.

By halftime the Hawks led 43-35 and it appeared that nothing would stop their momentum.

Hixon sank LBCC's first five points of the second half but was just trading baskets with Harbor, which slowly built its lead to 18 points at 70-52. The eight-point halftime lead was bolstered as the Hawks outscored LBCC 33-23 in the first 12 minutes of the second half.

UCLA PLAYS PRINCETON NEXT

Alcindor Too Much for Providence, 98-81

NEW YORK (AP) — Towering Lew Alcindor triggered a second-half UCLA spurt that shot the mighty Bruins past Providence, 98-81, and Bill Buntings' 20 second-half points carried North Carolina to a 69-61 victory over Villanova in the first round of the ECAC Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament Friday.

UCLA plays Princeton at 6 (PST) tonight. Alcindor hit on his first five shots in the second half as the unbeaten, nationally top-ranked Bruins rolled to their sixth victory of the season after John Warren's first-half shooting spared St. John's N.Y. to a 61-51 triumph over Michigan State in the tourney opener.

Second-ranked North Carolina, spoiling for a showdown with UCLA, eliminated fifth-ranked Villanova in a bruising, foul-marred battle and Princeton's Geoff Petrie and John Hummer led the Tigers to a 67-55 decision over Holy Cross in the evening twin bill at Madison Square Garden before 19,500, largest crowd in the Festival's history.

UCLA led the scrappy young Friars 54-46 early in the second half when Alcindor spun in for a lay-up and added a free throw for a three-point play.

The 7-foot 1½ all-American put in another short shot a moment later, giving the Bruins a 59-48 edge.

49ers Rout Edinboro, Play Irvine for Crown

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

IRVINE — Cal State Long Beach forward-philosopher Sleepy Montgomery observed after a recent 49er victory:

"It doesn't matter how good you are. If you aren't UCLA, the best you can be at the end of the season is something and one."

Under Sleepy's classification, two of the southland's best (recordwise) "aren'ts," Cal State Long Beach and UC Irvine, met tonight at 9 in the finals of the UC Irvine Tournament.

The 49ers (10-1) reached the finals by blasting Edinboro State of Pennsylvania, 84-58, and Irvine (8-1) qualified to meet the 49ers by bopping Cal State L.A., 92-81, in games Friday night.

It should be a classic match. The 49ers have displayed the best defense in the tournament, the Ant-eaters the best offense.

"It's a good thing our defense was tough," 49er coach Jerry Tarkanian said.

"If they (Edinboro) had gotten two points for every time the refs called steps on us, it would have been a close game.

"The refs kept giving them (Edinboro) the ball, but they couldn't get them any points.

"Give credit to everyone that played for us. They really hustled, and that's what happens when we work on defense."

The 49ers didn't do badly on offense, either, especially in the second half.

Edinboro scored 10 successive points with a press to end the first half and appeared to have Cal State struggling to hold a 29-26 lead.

"They used two big men to trap Ray (Gritton, 6-0 guard) and he couldn't get rid of the ball. We took care of that with a halftime adjustment."

Shawn Johnson led a 49er burst to start the second half that quickly took care of the Scots.

Johnson scored 12 points and passed for four more and Cal State outscored Edinboro, 21-4, in the first 7:06 of the final session.

Gritton joined Johnson with 15 points for the game. Super Sam Robinson was the game's leading scorer with 22 points. Super Sam also led both clubs with 17 rebounds. Montgomery added 14 caroms as the 49ers ruled that statistic, 67-35.

Only Harry Jenkins was able to solve the 49er

Trojans Overtime Winners

By GEORGE LEDERER

USC managed to maintain its perfect record for the season at the L.A. Sports Arena Friday night although the Trojans were not nearly as polished as the floor.

Down 59-52 with 3:38 to play, USC was able to force Montana State into overtime and won 74-68 in the second game of what is billed as the Trojan Invitational basketball tournament.

Few fans heard about the billing because only 1,840 turned out.

Tulsa defeated University of Texas at El Paso 81-73 in the opener and will meet the Trojans for the championship tonight at 9. Montana State and UTEP vie in the consolation opener at 7.

USC dumped an undefeated team for the third time this season while running its record to 6-4 and 5-0 at the Sports Arena. The Trojans also dropped Houston and Cincinnati from the perfect ranks.

The Bobcats of Montana State appeared to be on their way to a fifth consecutive win when Jay Harrington hit on a jumper over Mack Calvin for a 7-

Mathis Gives Fine Melodyland Show

By ROBERT BECKMAN

Johnny Mathis' opening night audience at Melodyland showed definite signs of slipping under a pleasant hypnotic spell.

If the young vocalist — most sincere to appear on that stage since the late Nat King Cole — noticed, he must have been smiling inside.

It wasn't too many years ago that his mother asked a hypnotist during a public engagement in the Bay area to help her son lose his fear of audiences. Her son, she said, could be a great singer.

THE hypnotist complied, assuring young Mathis under hypnosis he could feel at ease while entertaining. Mathis immediately was able to sing before a crowd without choking.

Knowing this background, Melodylanders watch Johnny intently. Yes, his hands clasp and unclasp — but meanwhile he is giving fullest of meaning to such numbers as "When I fall in Love," "Love Look Away" or "It's Not for Me to Say."

Mathis opens his fast-moving new show with "Camelot," "Misty" and "Look at Me." Melodylanders, hungry for good music after months of local drought, applaud vigorously.

Post-intermission fun includes "By the Time I Get to Phoenix" and "Joey." By the time Johnny settles down to "On a Clear Day," it's clear he is building toward an enjoyable finale. "It's Wonderful" could be the last number, but an appreciative audience shoos him back for a twin bonus.

"Maria" is his best effort of the evening.

THE QUIET, effective lighting — operated with near flawlessness, suddenly erupts into a cascade of stars pervading stage and audience during Mathis' tremulous "The Impossible Dream."

When Mathis isn't on stage, the gap is filled surprisingly well by two 14-year-olds and one 16: the Craig Hundley Trio.

Craig, red-haired pianist-leader with a 170-plus IQ, guides drummer Gary Chase and bass player Wilford Chapron expertly through such numbers as "Who Can I Turn To?" and "From That Moment On." Jazz critics who have labeled the group the "jazz phenomenon of 1968" could be right, Melodylanders agree.

The Johnny Mathis Show spells the return of good entertainment to Orange County. It runs through New Year's Eve.

BOOK REVIEWS

Political Captives —a Timely Study

THE ANATOMY OF CAPTIVITY. By John Laffin. Abelard-Schuman, $5.

Man's inhumanity to man is usually at its most vicious when he holds another in captivity. The political prisoner is, and has always been, the worst-treated of captives. As a military historian, John Laffin was drawn to research on prisoner-of-war camp conditions, and that in turn led him into the subject of the political prisoner.

Political prisoners unnumbered languish, often for indefinite terms, in the Communist countries of Europe and Asia, in Spain and Portugal, in South Africa and Rhodesia, in Castro's Cuba, in Greece, and alas, in most of the newly independent nations, from which a measure of decency might have been expected.

AUTHOR Laffin's thorough and illuminating study for the purpose of arousing indignation is as timely today as it would have been at the height of the Hitler and Stalin terrors, from which he draws much of his material.

Especially interesting is that part of the book devoted to survival under inhuman treatment in captivity. Laffin has extensively used actual case studies on how political prisoners have made life bearable under conditions of bestial mistreatment.

N.H. THE SEANCE. By Isaac Bashevis Singer. Farrar, Straus and Giroux, $5.95.

Somerset Maugham regarded as his supreme accomplishment that he was a teller of tales, and Isaac Bashevis Singer, whose writings, if nothing else, would give the Yiddish language a raison d'être, can with justice make the same claim. The 16 stories in this volume give added proof that he is the finest Yiddish writer since Sholem Aleichem, and one of the world's foremost writers as well.

The title story, of an old man's visits to a medium in New York; "The Needle," about a mother's unrelenting test for prospective brides for her son; "The Dead Fiddler," the story of a spirit who returns through a young girl; "Yanda," the tale of a kindhearted Polish slaver, these are the best of this collection, but the rest are almost as superb.

THE EXTIRPATION OF IDOLATRY IN PERU. By Father Pablo Joseph de Arriaga. Translated from the Spanish by L. Clark Keating. University of Kentucky Press, $7.50.

Father Arriaga, Spanish Jesuit, came to Lima in 1585. As a religious inspector among the Indians in the early part of the next century he investigated the results of the attempts to convert the natives to Christianity. He wrote this book as a sort of handbook on abolishing Indian paganism. He advocated a no-nonsense approach.

His ways of conversion were hardly compatible with those of Jesus Christ; rather, they seem to be the forerunner of what went on centuries later in Soviet Russia and Nazi Germany.

SPEAKING of the caciques (native chiefs) he proposes: "If they are accomplices of idolatry, they shall be deprived of their position as cacique, reduced to forced labor, whipped, and shorn. And if idolatry exists in the towns or festivals . . . and they say that they do not know about these things . . . they will be deprived of their office and sentenced to forced labor."

But in recording what he saw in his investigations, he set down an invaluable account of the Indian ceremonies and idols, their priests and sorcerers, their festivals, their superstitions, their methods of sacrifice.

Howard's Life Is Bowl of Cherries

by HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You hardly ever meet a totally happy man anymore, but Trevor Howard says he's one.

"I have no ambition except to be happy — happy enough not to need any other goal," said Howard, who at 52 is rated one of Britain's top actors.

A slender forthright man with sea-green eyes, ruddy cheeks and sandy-reddish hair, Howard is allergic to stuffy people, refuses to endure boredom and enjoys a bit of larking when he isn't working. Having completed his 49th and 50th films recently — "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and "The Battle of Britain" — he was in merry mood during a recent visit here.

"I WAS THE original rebel," he remarked, "but being alone at it, I wasn't able to win the battle. So now I've got the name of just being a hell-raiser. After Errol Flynn left, I became No. 1."

Son of a British shipper, he spent five years of his childhood in Ceylon, disappointed his family when he chose to be an actor rather than a soldier. However as a paratrooper officer in World War II, he won the Military Cross for gallantry.

"I became an actor because I couldn't think of anything else to do except a bun or a beachcomber," he said. "Once I was offered a job selling umbrellas in Argentina, but I didn't think I'd be good at that, and I turned it down."

HOWARD'S deceptive skill at his trade won him fame in such films as

TREVOR HOWARD
A Totally Happy Man

"Brief Encounter," "The Third Man" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

"I only do the things I want," he said. "A man's a Mongolian idiot to live any other way. What's the good of stacking money away if you can't take it with you?"

"I believe life is for laughs. If you've got the laughs, you've got friends, and if you have friends you have loyalty, no matter where in the world you are — and, hell, what more do you want?"

HOWARD has no regrets that he once turned down the role of Professor Higgins in "My Fair Lady," the role that earned Rex Harrison a mint of money on stage and screen.

"I'd only have ended up five years older, doing the same thing over and over," he said cheerfully. "I don't like being a gramophone record."

"I have never planned life, and don't intend to start now. I live from day to day. There is no real planning in this business anyway. One thing does lead to another."

If he weren't an actor, Howard would like to be an explorer.

He is interested in animal conservation, particularly African elephants which he feels are nobler and gentler than people.
